

N. Y. C. RESTORES TRAIN SERVICE ON RIVER LINE

Management Yields To Pressure Brought To Bear By People Railroad Serves

GOES INTO EFFECT MONDAY

The New York Central management, after one month's trial, have recognized the right of the people of that section of Clearfield county traversed by the River Line to first class passenger service or in any event a regular passenger train, and starting on Monday will restore regular passenger service between Clearfield and Keating.

According to the new schedule left at The Progress office this morning by J. P. O'Laughlin, Esq., of the company's local counsel, the new passenger train will leave Clearfield at 10:30 a. m. and arrive at Keating at 1:25 p. m. Returning the passenger train will leave Keating at 2:00 p. m. and arrive in Clearfield at 4:55 p. m.

The Progress is more than proud to make this announcement for the New York Central and is glad to know that the management is broad enough to correct its mistakes when those mistakes are apparent.

While it is true that the River Line is about the busiest single piece of track the N. Y. C. system has in this section, much of the business done originates and is diverted from points far distant from the state, and the people of the section traversed certainly could not be blamed for protesting when their rights and privileges were curtailed and taken from them in order to get the product of other sections and other states to market. Especially so, when the original line of the N. Y. C. was available to enough of this traffic to allow for the little bit of time allotted to actual running of this passenger train.

Another thing that causes rejoicing in this restoration of passenger service as per the time table posted today, is that the grove menace of travel on a mixed train on the River Line, due to its physical condition, is removed. As every person acquainted with the River Line is aware, there are four large tunnels between Clearfield and Keating and as the rules seemed to allow the attaching of the passenger cars to cars loaded with gasoline, explosives and combustibles generally the possibility of wrecks and horrible disasters were ever present every day such "mixed train" started out on that trip.

This together with the universal complaint of the down-river people who were forced to come out and wait

Incendiary Sets Fire To Goffe Acres Barn

Automobile Party Fortunately Sees Smoke and Fire is Squelched

The timely passing of an auto load of young people, returning to Clearfield from the carnival at DuBois early this morning nipped in the bud what promised to be a lively conflagration as has visited our neighboring farms for some little time.

Just as the returning merry-makers arrived opposite Goffe Acres, above Grampian one of their party noticed flames issuing from what looked to be the barn. Closer inspection disclosed the fact that someone had thoroughly saturated one of the smaller out-houses with gasoline and touched a match.

Alarming the Fegley household the party soon formed a bucket brigade and with the aid of a Pyrene extinguisher had the flames under control in a short time. That the origin of the fire was incendiary there is no question as one of the party informed The Progress man that the odor of gasoline was very noticeable and the building seemed to have been set on fire in several places at once.

WANTS A DIVORCE

Walter B. Brooks of Curwensville, through his attorney A. H. Woodward filed a petition in the Prothonotary's office yesterday in which he asks for a divorce from his wife, Lucinda Brooks. He says they were married October 8, 1914 and separated in February 1917, on account of the cruel and barbarous treatment his wife accorded him.

AGED GENERAL SHOOTS WIFE AND SELF

Boston, Aug. 4.—General Wm. Hoffman, U. S., retired, early today shot his wife Ora and then committed suicide in his home near Dorchester. The reason for the act is unknown. A physician in the apartment heard the shot and hurried to the scene. Both died in a few minutes. The general was aged 78 years.

along the line for the uncertain arrival of the mixed train with little or no shelter at all, no doubt assisted N. Y. C. officials in making up their minds to restore the desired passenger train.

This spirit and desire to recognize the rights of all parties should be conducive to much better feeling between the railroad and its patrons in the future.

This train, according to this time table in effect August 5, will leave Mahaffey at 8:15 a. m., and is due to arrive in Clearfield at 10:20 a. m. Member of British Parliament In Clearfield to Lecture Last Night

Large Audience Appreciated Chance to Hear of World War From One so Well Informed on It

Honorable Percy Alden, member of Parliament, who spoke at Chautauqua upon the topic of the great war, and the future of Europe after its cessation—if it ever does cease, is not an orator, and makes no pretensions in that direction. His address might more properly be described as an unaffected presentation of the case for the allies, and our people heard him quietly and earnestly, and gave him full credit for sincerity manifested in his demeanor. He has been associated with the distribution of the relief measures among the Belgian refugees driven into Holland, and England, and some of his stories of the horrible cruelty of the German army almost pass humane comprehension. The repetition of the story of an army driving women and children before it in order to save their own men from the bullets of the enemy—which a great many of our people have hitherto refused to believe—must stamp German militarism as not only horrible, but also as most densely stupid. Prussianism, relying apparently upon the tenderness of Christianity, which they hoped would operate to break down under the spectacle of the number of innocents, and permit an unspeakable atrocity to win, by default, has lost all sense of religion, and has become—and made the German people become—merely material brutes. There is but one cure for that phase of mind, and only one—cold steel in allopathic doses. Germany had been under any deep sense of religious feeling, would have risen en masse at the first demonstrations of "frightfulness," and hanged her Kaiser, and his bloody hirelings. There is time still but time is getting short. If Germany—the German people, not the pack of rascals that have brought the name of this once honored nation into the gutter—hopes to retain a shred of that respect upon which to build future relations with the civilized nations of the world, her honest men in the trenches, and those at home who have left a shred of real humanity, will resolutely cast off the rule of cowardly and dastardly inhumanity and brutality and proclaim for the return of a vantage of civility in the conduct of the war. We hardly hope for this, for a jidity seems to be the ruling characteristic of Germany's war lord.

We who know so well the quiet aplomb and self possession of the average Englishman of Mr. Alden's type, could sense the awfulness of his experiences from his quiet and unsentimental recapitulation of cold-blooded murder. He bears the hall mark of a

American Submarine Which Blew Up Near Manila

The American submarine A-7 built in 1902, blew up in a mysterious manner while off Cavite near Manila, in the Philippine Islands. Five men, including her commander, Lieutenant Arnold Marcus, were killed. The first report had it that the cause was the formation of a pocket of gasoline within the ship.

Burnside Great Place For Long Wedded Life

Local Historian Recounts Eight Couples Married Fifty Years

The little town of Burnside situated in the upper end of Clearfield county near the headwaters of the beautiful West Branch of the Susquehanna river, is sure one quiet, healthy spot. At the recent golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. John Stauffer the village historian was moved to a compilation of statistics covering similar occurrences in that community and as a result of his research he announces that during the past two score and two years no less than eight couples have celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries.

They were Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ruffner, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brickell, Mr. and Mrs. James Wetzel, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Darr, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. James Sunderlin and Mr. and Mrs. John Stauffer. In addition to these Mr. and Mrs. Henry Darr and Mr. and Mrs. James Dowler only lacked a few months of rounding out a half century of wedded life, where the pruning knife of time cut the golden circle which bound their lives together. Of these good old people Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver celebrated the 64th anniversary of their wedding and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ruffner rounded out sixty years of wedded life.

This certainly is a record any community might well be proud of.

SUNDAY NIGHT VESPER AT THE CHAUTAUQUA TENT

The churches of the city will unite in a Vesper Service at the Chautauqua tent Sunday night at 7:30 P. M. There will be a sacred concert given by the talent of the "Chimes of Normandy Concert Co.," which will be followed by an address by Dr. Guinness of Washington, D. C.

The combined choirs of the churches will be on the platform, and lead in the singing of familiar hymns. Bring your "Make Christ King" books. Everyone in town invited to this service. There is no admission. An offering will be taken.

ENTERTAINED S. S. CLASS

Mrs. Judson Carns entertained Mrs. James Starns Sunday school class of which she is a member last evening at her home on Turnpike avenue. After the business meeting the evening was spent in a social way. Miss Myra Shaw furnished beautiful music for the guests. The house was beautifully decorated in ferns and cut flowers and the table decorations were red, white and blue. Delicious refreshments.

Armed Men Hunt Draft Slackers In Oklahoma

One Little Skirmish Occurs But No One Is Hit In Fusillade

Wewoka, Okla., Aug. 4.—One hundred and fifty armed men headed by Sheriff Grall left today to join the posse at Ada, Okmulgee, and Muskogee who are in search of anti-draft demonstrators who are spreading terror throughout the southeast of Oklahoma. The posse planned to form at Lone Dove. Reports indicate that more than 600 armed men will form the posse. At nine o'clock no reports had been received by the posse scouring the river bottom for the rioters. The residents said that the men were hiding in the brush along the river.

Ada, Okla., August 4.—The first fight between county officials, citizens' posse and deputy sheriffs on the one side and anti-draft rioters on the other took place at Stonewall early today. A number of shots were fired but not one was injured.

MOLDERS BACK TO WORK

The strike of the molders at the Clearfield Machine shops ended yesterday morning when Mr. Reed met the terms asked by the men and ordered all hands back to work. Under the newly signed scale the daily wage has been fixed at $4.25 for a nine hour day.

Dr. J. Hayes Woolridge, of Clearfield, now serving as interne in the Germantown hospital of Philadelphia, has volunteered his services to the Medical Reserve Corps of the army and has passed the physical examination.

Comrade 'Red' Delaney Makes Observation

Gives The Progress Readers An Insight Into Army Affairs

Gettysburg, Pa.
August 2, 1917

To My Dear Friends in General: Was surprised and also amused when I saw in The Progress the size of the loaf of bread they bake in the Gettysburg National Park bakeries. I'll bet they make Schmitt jealous. Gettysburg National Park is the correct military name for this camp.

I have always known Stewart, Jim and Nightingale's imagination was immense, now I am convinced. On the level, they are not so large. The reason I can speak so truthfully about the size of a loaf of bread is because I have mangled quite a number doing K. P. in other words Kitchen Police or detail, which is by the way some job. I would love to see some of my old pals peeling spuds, washing pans etc. Henry Ryan spent last evening with us in camp and seemed to enjoy himself very much. Our life appealed to him immensely. There are a few other nuts in our detachment besides myself, therefore he had quite a pleasant evening. This evening he is coming out to have supper with me. He gave both Harry and myself a box of Camels, ten packs. Wasn't that fine of him? It surely goes good to see someone from home, you know. As you no doubt know when we landed at this port the two regiments from Texas, which were the 4th and 7th were divided into the 58th, 59th, 60th and 61st. That made the number in each very small. Since that time the 4th, 7th and 58th have built up to war strength which is fifteen companies, about one hundred and sixty five to a company. Tomorrow they start to fill our regiment which is the 59th. Every thing at this port is infantry. At present there are about ten thousand men here. You can't see a civilian in Gettysburg for soldiers. I am in the same corps as Dr. Piper and Dr. Lever Stewart are enlisting in. Of course they will have a little more authority than I have which no doubt don't sound reasonable.

We haven't the slightest idea how long we will remain in Gettysburg. Some say until Spring, others say about a month. One thing is certain the sooner the 59th goes to France, the sooner the war will be over, as we are going to be some gang. Harry Davis is getting fat, lazy and sassy. We only have two sergeants. They are both good old scouts, and you know those things count. When we are built up to war strength I will try and have our Brigadier General Kennedy march to Clearfield and have you give us a look. I receive The Progress daily, and believe me it goes good. The only fault I can find, there isn't enough scandal. Can't you get somebody to start something.

We got our second partyhood inoculation today, which is five since joining. If you hear of anybody from home coming this way tell them to be sure and pay us a visit. Just ask for the Medical Corps 59th infantry. Hoping that everybody and everything in the old town is O. K. and that no more of the boys have to join the colors, will rest.

Sincerely
Private Harry E. Delaney

Government Calls For Ships Now Building

Order Will Affect Aggregate Tonnage of More Than Million and a Half

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 4.—The Shipping Board today telegraphed orders to a score of the largest shipping yards requisitioning all ships of 25,000 tonnage now building. Management of the yards will continue under the present owners, but under government direction. 675 ships will be affected by the government's order. The aggregate tonnage will be more than 1,500,000, including many English, Norwegian and other vessels of foreign account.

EXPLOSION IN KENTUCKY COAL MINE

(By United Press)

Clay, Ky., Aug. 4.—Following a gas explosion in a mine of the Western Kentucky Coal company it was reported many men were entombed. Most of the men are negroes. According to the latest report it seems the mine is on fire. One report said 200 men were entombed. Soldiers who were on guard in that section have charge. Thirty negroes have been rescued. One was burned to death and three may die. Four mine rescue cars are on their way from Evansville, Ind.

Germany Reshaping Her Military Course To Meet U. S. Offensive

Entrance of America Into the War Will Help Put Kaiser's Army on The Defensive

By J. W. T. Mason

(Written for the United Press)
New York, Aug. 3.—Germany's military situation at the close of the third year of the war is being shaped to meet the new offensive of American troops on the western front next spring. The Kaiser must henceforth fight a defensive battle because of America's entrance into the war; and he must husband his soldiers for use against America's new citizen armies. No seriously designed offensive that would risk bringing large casualties to the Germans can henceforth be attempted by the Kaiser except at great peril to his lines when the main forces of the United States begin to hammer at the western front. Germany must save her soldiers to meet the American assault if there is to be any possible hope of the Germans retaining part of their hold on Belgium and Northern France for trading purposes in the peace conference.

This is the reason why during the third year of the war, the German general staff has feared to attempt a serious offensive against the armies of the new Russian democracy, weakened by dissensions and threatened with mutinies. The Germans might have broken through the Riga front and perhaps captured Petrograd last

COURT MARTIAL WILL BE CASE OF SLACKERS

Those Who Feebly Oppose Draft Laws Will Be Subject To Court-Martial

CROWDER RULING IS BRILLIANT

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 4.—Change of the section and trial before a military court is the fate of eight men of Oklahoma, Georgia, and other states who feebly opposed the draft. The government intends to set property and forcibly according to an official directing operations for the military service law today.

Provost Marshal General Crowder today conferred with Attorney General Gregory on the question of dealing with the slackers. I am not only much impressed with the attitude of the anti-draft rioters. I believe 90 per cent of the people of this country are in favor of the exemption law. Any eligible man who part in such a movement will be committed into the new national camp placed in an army camp and if he fails to answer he will be regarded as an ordinary deserter with no opportunity to go before the exemption board but with the opportunity of going before a military court.

GERMANY THREATENS NEW TREAT NATIONS

Rome, Aug. 4.—Germany had threatened the neutrals was one going to close their frontiers against the Russian powers that such an act would be cause for war, it became known this afternoon. The German threat, it was said, was directed especially against Holland.

spring but the attempt would have been a very costly one, and Petrograd in the hands of the Kaiser would bring to life the dead German soldiers when the American troops start pressing the Teutons toward the Rhine.

The revolution in Russia occurred between the breaking of German-American diplomatic relations and the declaration of war by the United States upon Germany. The risk, therefore, of moving deeper into Russia was too great to be undertaken. The offensive which the Germans began to develop in eastern Galicia at the close of the third year of the war cannot be pressed far, unless the Russian troops show complete demoralization and practically invite the Germans to move forward. Any further resistance by the Russians will only bring the Germans to a halt; their troops must be saved for the western front against the time when America starts what will be the final offensive of the war.

The third year of the conflict saw a phenomenal German success in Rumania. The great retreat of the Teutons in Transylvania, followed by the overwhelming victories against the confident Rumanians formed a series of campaigns that could have been

TWO MENACES

In making absurd statements the Republican compares favorably to the Menace which is published out at Aurora, Missouri. Both papers are committed to certain policies; the former to saving the county thousands of dollars a year (this money saved the county includes every resource of the county which remains in the hands of the county officials and taxes not yet levied or intended to be levied) and incidentally, in the interest of cheap politics, villifying every public official and servant who by good judgment thinks four square instead of two by four. The Menace likewise is always seeing white elephants, always pointing the finger of suspicion at those it seeks to harass and embarrass and lives and has its very being through the support it gets from those who like to believe the worst of men and enjoy reading the sensuous tales it prints. It villifies every individual member of the institution it opposes. Thus does our "Clearfield Menace" live and have its being.

Men and institutions can win their way with honorable methods. There never was any justification for such political methods as insinuations and inferences on the honesty of men but it was tolerated because it was common practice and because the politician of the past rode to fame, glory and power by riding over the prostrate bruised and bleeding form of his opponent by using some cheap scandal-mongering sheet to poison the minds of the voters. Thank God there are few such newspapers in existence now. Editors have come to a realization that they owe more to their readers than to designing politicians and no longer wield their pen to splotch character and poison minds.

The Republican has accused, times beyond number, lie or private life. The fault of being incompetent and inefficient and we have an idea that this accusation is made most frequently because they are charges which do not lay the Republican liable to any responsibility and are so broad that they can be laid against any individual in public or private life. The fault of being incompetent and inefficient lies entirely in the degree of incompetency and inefficiency and since the Republican damns the Commissioners if they "do" and accords them the same treatment if they "don't," the Republican thereby renders itself incompetent to fix the degree. It is a fact that the Commissioners have been condemned by the Republican for every progressive move they have made. The farmer, the tradesman and the salesman, also the man who has interests through the county and state use automobiles in the interest of economy and efficiency and yet the Republican brands the county car an extravagance. For years people have clamored for removal of the dangerous curves at the Creek bridge and the present board of Commissioners removed them. Had the Commissioners refused to sanction these improvements it is safe to assume that the Republican would have jumped all over the Commissioners for sticking to Pullman cars instead of braving the dust and bad weather of autoing by investing a paltry sum in a cheap car to make trips in the interest of county business. And had the Commissioners failed to go ahead with the bridge improvements they would have been held up on another charge of inefficiency.

Now for the absurdities. The Republican takes occasion to lambast Jesse Dale for resigning from the Exemption Board because he could not give attention to his duties as a County Commissioner and serve on the Exemption Board. The Republican overlooked the fact that it was not a case of choosing between two salaries as Mr. Dale could have collected both his salary as a Commissioner and his daily compensation as a member of the Exemption Board. We await with interest what the Republican will have to say about the resignation of J. Frank Snyder, the latest appointee who resigned because of his Red Cross activities and other engagements in which he is interested. We have no censure for Mr. Snyder. It is up to him to decide what is his patriotic duty in this time when the immediate raising of an immense army is the paramount consideration and it is up to the Government to decide whether they will release Mr. Snyder or force him to serve. However we mention this incident because it gives the Republican a wonderful chance to practice its natural proclivities.

Again in column two of the latest issue of the Republican the statement is made that all the Commissioners might as well be in Alaska for Mr. Norris would attend to the business of the county. In the next column the absurd statement is made that Mr. Norris has not done twenty cents worth of work in twenty months. Too absurd to command any comment but the acme of inconsistency in the light of the other editorial.

Summing it all up it is the howls, warnings, scare heads, villifications and absurdities which sell the Menace and—well, you know the sequel.

Germany Reshaping Her Military Course

conducted only by military commanders of large skill and daring. Nevertheless the German victories in Rumania will eventually prove to be one of the reasons for the undoing of German militarism. Rumania's complete collapse was the direct cause of the Russian revolution. If the Rumanian armies had been victorious and had retained their first hold on Transylvania and had penetrated into Hungary, the Czar's prestige would have been increased and Czarism would not have been overthrown. Hence, the ultimate cause of democracy was better served when the Rumanian armies were annihilated than if the Rumanians had won victories for the glory of the Czar. The profound influence which the success of democracy in Russia is having on the democratic movement in Germany therefore means that Germany's great military success of the third year of the war will assist the allies in the forthcoming overthrow of Prussian militarism and the establishment of a responsible parliamentary government in Germany.

On the western front, Germany was compelled partly to shorten her defensive lines during the third year of the war, in order to economize her manpower. This retirement was not wholly successful. Scarcely more than sixty percent of the German line has been disentangled from its costly zig zag entrenchments to the straightened front which retires into the reserve six thousand soldiers for every shortened mile of front entrenchments. The German lines from Arras northward still retain their useless convolutions. The Germans have feared to continue the straightened process there because of the presence of a great reserve of British troops who might break through the German line while the retirement was in progress and compel a general retreat. The costly holding of excess mileage therefore still exists for the Germans in the west. This means that many more Germans are being killed than would otherwise be the case; and it is the constant killing of more and more Germans whether the western line breaks or not, that is the main military objective of the allies. Eventually, the time must come when this policy will mean German capitulation through exhaustion of manpower, if the German government is allowed by the German people to carry the war so far.

The third year of the war was half over when the German militarists decided upon the adoption of ruthless submarine warfare against all ships at sea neutral or belligerent. This policy was adopted as a final effort by the militarists to win the war in a short time. It has failed to do so. If the Germans could have carried out their boast of sinking a million tons of shipping at the start of their campaign of ruthlessness, and increasing this total as new submarines were constructed, the war might have ended for the time being in a German victory. But they have not met with fifty percent of their anticipated success. The situation has been made serious for the allies; but the essential factor for Germany was that the U-boats should do their work quickly. By forcing the United States into the war, any long drawn conflict between submarines and merchant shipping must result in success for the latter, because of the immense facilities for constructing merchantmen that America has contributed to the Allies' cause.

The internal situation in Germany during the third year of the war has been developing constantly increasing difficulties for the militarists. The food problem has become worse, because of the curtailment of exports from contiguous neutral countries; and in particular, there has been an intensified suffering among the poor. The inability of the German government to solve the food problem has been the principal cause of the great progress democratic ideas have made in Germany during the past year. The people have begun dimly to realize that the Berlin autocracy is failing in its domestic policies and is halted in its military policies. When this realization becomes thoroughly understood among the Germans, a condition will be brought about that will make the world safe for democracy and so end the war.

PAIGE*The Most Beautiful Car in AmericaAn Apology—And An Explanation

We feel that we owe an explanation to the thousands of Paige enthusiasts and prospective Paige owners whose choice is The Most Beautiful Car in America, but who have been unable to secure prompt deliveries.

The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company has not failed to keep up with its production schedule. As a matter of fact we have already far exceeded the schedule we planned for ourselves last December.

There Must Be Good Reasons For This Overwhelming Popularity

The explanation is plain and unescapable. This unprecedented demand for The Most Beautiful Car in America is inspired by Paige mechanical excellence.

The greatest motoring value is the sum and substance of this explanation. With its mechanical excellence, its beauty, its durability, the Paige is easily sold and—most important of all—it stays sold.

This shortage in Paige cars is not merely a local condition. It is national. If you question this statement go to your nearest Paige dealer and he will confirm it.

But there are other reasons for Paige popularity. They go back of mechanical excellence, beauty and excess values. They are fundamental because they make such things possible. We refer to the sound economic and financial policies that are the foundation of the Paige structure.

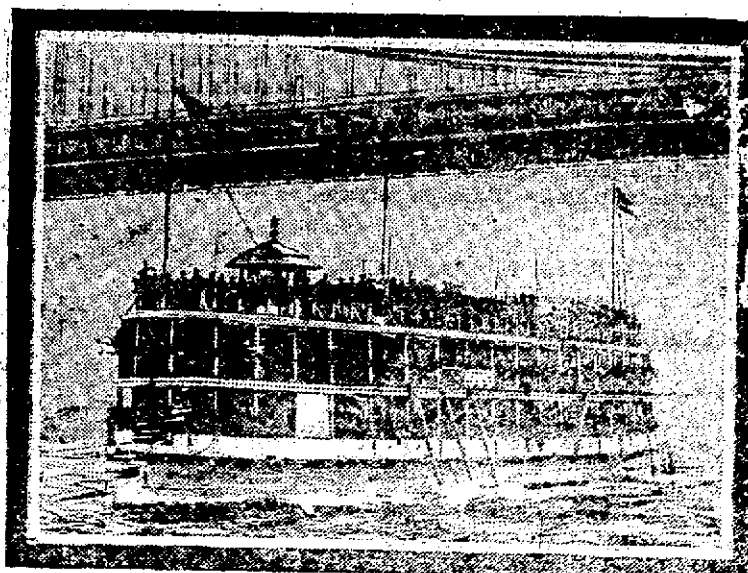

In percentage of sales increase, The Most Beautiful Car in America has outstripped all competitors between $1000 and $2000 in price for the last six months.

OFFICIALS REVEAL FACTS AS TO AUSTRIAN ULTIMATUM

Washington, Aug. 3.—Germany had possession of Austria's ultimatum to Serbia fourteen hours before it was delivered to Belgrade, according to positive information which has reached officials here and which was made public today for the first time.

It was stated that former Foreign Secretary Zimmermann admitted to himself when pressed very closely as to Germany's foreknowledge of the action of her ally which precipitated the European war.

Information given credence by officials here is that at a conference at Potsdam did take place, and was attended by Von Moltke, Falkenhayn, Tirpitz, Bethmann, Hollweg, the Crown Prince and Emperor William. Afterward the Emperor left for a short trip and on his return found Sir Edward Grey's offer of mediation. He was disposed to accept this, but Von Moltke, Falkenhayn and Tirpitz threw their swords down on the table and offered their resignations. The Emperor thereupon decided to refuse the offer.

SWITZERLAND TO HELP GERMANY WITH LOANS

Paris Aug. 2.—A dispatch to La Liberte from Berne Switzerland says Germany and Switzerland have reached an economic agreement. Switzerland according to the correspondent, will advance Germany 40,000,000 francs ($8,000,000) monthly for nine months at the rate of 5 per cent, with Germany will supply Switzerland with 200,000 tons of coal monthly.

AMERICAN TROOPS LIKELY TO PARADE IN LONDON

London, Aug. 3.—In response to suggestions made by London newspapers the war office and the commander of the American troops in England are considering parading the troops through the streets of London for the purpose of giving the people a chance to welcome them. An announcement by one of the newspapers that arrangements for the parade had been made was declared today to have been premature.

Ambassador Gerard's Exposé of Kaiserism Starts Tomorrow

The first installment contains revelations that will startle America. They include a hitherto unpublished account of a private interview between Ambassador Gerard and the Kaiser, in which the latter made a decision that has cost the lives of millions.

Ambassador Gerard is one of the handful of statesmen and diplomats who know the "inside story" of Prussia's ambition, treachery and intrigue. He is the only American who was close enough to the Kaiser to watch every step in the unfolding of the great plot against human liberty.

He has written the full account of his experiences for publication as a serial in the

The dance in the Moose Hall Thursday evening was well attended, there being young folks present from Grampian, DuBois, Clearfield and Philipsburg.

George Ammerman drove a crowd of young folks to DuBois in his car Thursday evening.

What might have been a fatal accident occurred Thursday evening at the foot of Hogback hill, but fortunately no one was hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Scott McFadden and Mr. and Mrs. Earl McFadden and children, who were returning from Lacomont park where they spent the day, were run into by a large car from Clearfield. Mr. McFadden was driving a Ford, and his car was damaged to considerable extent. Through the kindness of Mr. Bloom at Ferncliff, they were taken to their home on Grampian road, while the other car went on to Clearfield, paying but little attention to the accident.

A. G. Ammerman, the ice man, has been a busy man the last few days, with the thermometer registering 95, 96 and 98.

Arthur Peterson and sisters Olga and Nora Peterson motored to Clearfield Thursday evening.

James Thorburn motored to Clearfield Thursday afternoon.

The community was greatly shocked on Wednesday when the news of the death of Mrs. Ethel Fletcher, formerly Miss Ethel Hughes, reached here. Mrs. Fletcher was employed at a hotel at Kittanning, and with several friends went in bathing and had been informed by the hotel proprietor that there was a dangerous whirlpool which, if not avoided, always proved fatal. A soldier guarding a bridge nearby saw the two girls struggling for their lives and made every effort to save the deceased, but without success, but rescue her companion. Mrs. Fletcher is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Roland of Glen Richey. The deceased is survived by her husband, mother and father, four sisters and two brothers. Funeral services were held Thursday evening at the Baptist church, with interment in the Thompson graveyard.

Robert Murray of Illinois, arrived here today to visit his son, Wm. Murray, and many of his former friends.

Brave Exploits Brings Hero Medal to Officer

Recovered Body of Another Officer Under Heavy Barrage Fire

By Henry Wood

(United Press Staff Correspondent) With the French Armies, July 10.—By Mail—Captain Garandeau, who began the present war as a sergeant, has been awarded the Legion of Honor for recovering under most exceptional circumstances the body of a French officer killed just in front of the German trenches.

While French machinegun operators hundreds of yards behind the French lines, executed a barrage of fire of protection over the dead body, Garandeau in full daylight and under the eye of both the French and the Germans, crept face downward to the spot, and attaching the body to his leg with a rope, successfully dragged it back into the French lines.

The dead officer, Lieutenant Seve by name, together with his orderly named Olmo, had been killed during a night raid on the German trenches. Immediately afterwards another party had left the French trenches for the purpose of bringing back the two bodies, but after searching all night in vain, came back in the morning empty handed.

During the course of the forenoon, the French finally succeeded in locating with strong field glasses the bodies lying in the tall grass just in front of a German trench and where any effort to recover them would be in full view of the enemy.

As it was certain that if the bodies were left there till night, the Germans would be able to ambush anyone who sought to recover them, Captain Garandeau, who barely knew the dead officer personally, volunteered to bring back the body in full daylight. The only possible protection that could be offered him was for the French machinegun operators to keep the

ARMLET AND BADGE FOR PENNA. HOME DEFENSE POLICE

A friendly warning concerning speech or conduct from a wearer of the armlet and badge here illustrated should be taken in good part—and promptly heeded.

They are the official insignia of the Pennsylvania Home Defense Police and denote that the wearer has all the powers delegated to special officers of first-class cities.

This means authority to make immediate arrests for any violation of the statutes. Maintenance of law and order and protection against all seditious attacks—verbal or physical—are included in the duties of this new force.

The badge is of embossed metal in silver-gray finish. It is considerably smaller than the cut reproduced above but the section of the armlet shown is actual size. The armlet is blue and white and is sufficiently large to enclose the coat sleeve. It will be displayed on the left arm between elbow and wrist when the wearer is on active duty.

The badge will not be prominently displayed when the wearer is off duty. But members of the force will always have their badges with them. The badge is evidence of the authority of its possessor to act for the security of the state at all times.

A Little Old Man Met Him.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

SOME BOYS CHOP WOOD

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

JACK sat down on daddy's left side and Evelyn on the right. When they kept quite still daddy began: "There was once a man who had three sons. The youngest was called Dummeling, which is about the same as calling him blockhead. He wasn't quite a fool, but he was thick at understanding things, and at times the whole household mocked and made fun of him, just as if he could help being stupid. I'm sure all of us would be clever if we knew how."

"Now it happened that the eldest son took it into his head one day to go into the woods and chop wood. So his mother gave him a nice cake and a bottle of wine, so that when he got hungry working so hard he might have a good meal in the woods."

"On his way to the woods a little old man met him with 'Good day, sir. Please give me a little bit of your cake and a drink from your bottle.'"

"But the clever young man said: 'Give you my cake and my wine? No; I thank you. I read all I have myself.'"

"And away he went into the woods to chop. He soon found a tree that pleased him and began to chop away at it. But he missed his stroke, his ax slipped, and he cut himself so badly that he had to hobble home."

"Now, you children will probably guess that it was the little old man who had sent him this bad luck in spite of his cleverness."

"Then the second son thought he would like to chop wood. So his mother gave him a cake and a bottle of wine too. He had not gone far when the same little old man met him and asked him for a bite to eat and a drink from the bottle. But this boy, like his brother, thought himself too clever for the old man. So he cried: 'The more you eat the less there will be for me! Go your way!'

"The little old man took good care that he should have the reward of stingsiness. So the second stroke of the ax in a tree planned off into the boy's foot, and, just like his brother, he was forced to hobble home."

"Then Dummeling said, 'Father, I want to go to the woods to chop wood, like the other boys.'"

"Said the father: 'Your clever brothers have only lamed themselves. You had better stay at home, for you know less than they do about the business of wood chopping.'"

"But Dummeling teased and teased, and at last his father exclaimed: 'Then go your way. You will be wiser when you have ached for your folly!'

Dead bodies constantly covered with a reaching body of Seve and tying barbed wire so that at least the Germans would not be able to creep out of their trenches and engage a hand-to-hand fight with the rescuer.

Accompanied by a soldier named Verdier who also volunteered for the task, Garandeau left the French trenches being obliged first to cut his way through the French barbed-wire entanglements with nippers and then for reaching the open space of No Man's Land. By crawling flat on his face and taking advantage of all natural cover Garandeau was able to keep out of the range of the Germans who could neither see at him or hurl hand grenades without exposing themselves to the deadly machine gun barrage with which the French were covering his worm-like progress.

Within an hour Garandeau after reaching the body of Seve and tying it to his leg, had successfully dragged it back into the French line. Inspired by his exploits volunteers immediately came forward and insisted on being allowed to go after the body of Olmo in the same manner. Sergeant Creteit and three soldiers were finally granted permission and before 8 in the evening they too returned to the French trenches dragging the other body tied to their legs. Simultaneously with the decoration of Garandeau today with the Legion of Honor, the sergeant and soldiers who participated in the exploit received also the Croix de Guerre.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well known authority, who warns to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act free. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by trying a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

It will be considerable blow for Clearfield fans if Detroit tops the Indians at the finish. Earlier in the season followers of the Indians digested the Tigers tagged for the heap.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY TRAINING ARMY INTERPRETERS

(By United Press) Washington, August 4.—Expert interpreters by the hundreds will soon be needed to carry on the business of Uncle Sam's new national army abroad.

Complete course in military interpretation of foreign languages, approved by Secretary Baker and the war college, are being offered for the summer at Columbia University, where linguists of every variety will be turned out for home and field service during the war. They will enter the army with the rank of sergeants.

First class interpreters, the War Department has found, are a hard class to master into the service in large numbers.

NO ENLISTMENTS AFTER TO-DAY

Captain George S. Ayres acting Major of the 18th Regiment, with headquarters in Clearfield, received word last evening from the headquarters of the Eastern department of the U. S. army to the effect that after tonight at midnight no more voluntary enlistments would be accepted for the National guard or U. S. army. Therefore all young men desiring to enter the service should do so before midnight tonight, otherwise they will be too late.

Co. L of the 18th located in Clearfield, needs a few men yet to reach full war strength and any person desiring to avoid the draft will do well to get in touch with Captain Sevel or his barracks here.

Among the collection of jewels reported to have been sold by the Kaiser for the benefit of the German war loan was a diamond necklace of 375 stones, presented to her by the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VI.—Third Quarter, For Aug. 5, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Chron. xxxiii, 1-20—Memory Verses, 12, 13—Golden Text, Isa. lv, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

There are so many things in the affairs of this world which we cannot understand that we can only find rest in remembering that the Lord liveth, and He is not discouraged, and He shall finally subdue all things unto Himself. It therefore becomes us to rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him. (Isa. xlii, 4; Rev. xvii, 14; Pa. xxxvii, 7; Phil. iii, 10, 21). That Ahaz should be such a wicked king, Hezekiah, his son, such a good king and Manasseh, his son, such a monster of iniquity is surely a strange sequence of events, which I certainly do not profess to begin to understand, but I rest in Him who foresees and overrules all things. There is something worthy of prayerful consideration in the fact that Hezekiah had fifteen years added to his life after his serious illness (Isa. xxxviii, 5), but did not render to God for this extension of time as he should have done (II Chron. xxxiii, 20).

Manasseh must have been born about three years after that illness, as he was twelve years old when he began to reign (xxiii, 1), and the question presents itself, Was it a real blessing to Hezekiah to have his life thus prolonged? When we are determined to have our own way God sometimes indulges us, even though He knows it is not the best thing for us, as when He gave Israel their request, but sent leanness into their soul (Pa. cix, 15). A mother once told me that when her two boys were very young they were sick unto death, but she would not give them up, and God let them live. But they grew up to give her a broken heart. Wholehearted submission to the perfect will of God is the better way. Contrast the Lord Jesus at the age of twelve about His Father's business and returning to the lowly home at Nazareth, there to be subject to Mary for the next eighteen years (Luke ii, 42-52).

Manasseh's reign was the longest of any of the kings of Judah, fifty-five years, and part of it was the very worst, according to the record in lesson verses 9-10. He wrought much evil in the sight of the Lord and caused Judah and Jerusalem to err and to do worse than the heathen whom the Lord had destroyed before the children of Israel, and, though the Lord spoke to him and to his people, they would not hearken (verses 2, 6, 9, 10). He was surely controlled by the devil during that part of his reign.

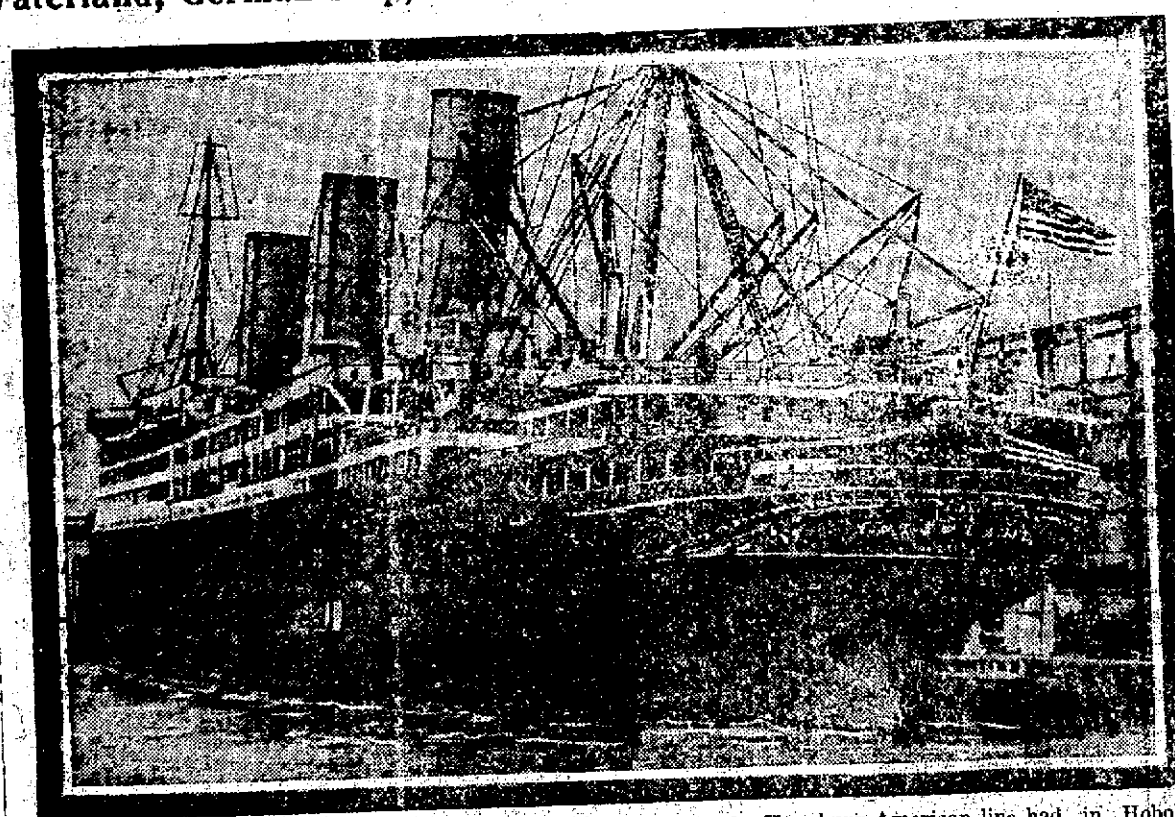

The Lord permitted the kings of Assyria to take him and blind him and carry him to Babylon, and there in his affliction he humbled himself greatly before God and prayed unto Him, and God heard him and brought him again to Jerusalem and to his kingdom. Then he knew that Jehovah was God (verses 11-18). In the Apocrypha there is a prayer recorded as his, part of which is: "Thou, O Lord, according to Thy great goodness, hast promised repentance and forgiveness to them that have sinned against Thee. . . . I have sinned, above the number of the sands of the sea. . . . I have set up abominations and have multiplied offenses. O Lord, I have sinned, and I acknowledge mine iniquities, when I beseech Thee, forgive me, O Lord, forgive me, and destroy me not with mine iniquities."

Whatever his actual prayer was, God, who reads the heart, saw that he was sincere and abundantly pardoned him, according to Isa. lv, 7. Whatever encouragement there is in this and the conversion of Saul of Tarsus and of the penitent thief for any and every sinner, however great, to turn to the Lord, for He came to save sinners, and His word ever stands, "Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out" (John vi, 37). He is not willing that any should perish and has no pleasure in the death of the wicked (II Pet. iii, 9; Ezek. xxxiii, 11). His eye is to sinners. Look unto me and be saved; incline your ear and come unto me, hear, and your soul shall live. And to His own who have wandered He cries: O that they were wise, that they would consider their latter end! O that my people had hearkened unto me and I would have walked in my ways! (Isa. xlv, 22; lv, 3; Deut. xxxii, 21; Pa. lxxxi, 15). When restored to Jerusalem and to his kingdom he endeavored to right some of the wrongs he had done and to bring forth fruits meet for repentance. He offered peace offerings and thank offerings unto the Lord and commanded Judah, to serve the Lord God of Israel (verses 14-17).

Such a change in such a man must have impressed many and turned many to the Lord, but we shall see as we go on in our lessons that the turning of the people away from God was very desperate, and it was not long until Judah was carried into captivity for her sins. The turning away from God, and His word in our day is as God foretold that it would be (I Tim. iii, 1-5; II Th. ii, 1-12; I Pet. iii, 3, 4; Luke xlv, 25-30), but He will build His church and take her to Himself and bring her back with Him in glory, and Israel shall then welcome Him, and they shall never be unrighteous any more, but shall be a blessing to all nations, and the earth shall be filled with His glory through Israel. His chosen messengers, according to Ps. lxxvii.

Waterland, German Ship, Greatest In The World, With American Flag

The great ship Waterland, the biggest vessel in the world, which the Hamburg-American line had in Hoboken when the war was declared in August 1914, and which has remained there ever since, now flies the American flag. It was run up the other day. The vessel has been taken over by the navy department, and has been repaired at a cost of $1,000,000 because of the damage done by German agents when the United States declared war on Germany. She will likely carry troops to fight against the Germans.

SIMPLE PROCESSES GIVEN

By George Martin

(United Press Staff Correspondent) Washington, August 4.—There's a lot of complicated and expensive machinery for fruit and vegetable drying, but Uncle Sam says you don't need to let that worry you. There are cheap and effective methods that do just as well.

Sun drying is about the cheapest and most effective method for housewives practicing a little war economy at home. In its simplest form sun drying consists of simply spreading the sliced or chopped food on sheets of clean paper, or, if it sticks, on pieces of old, tough canvas, matted with downy stones.

Choose bright, hot, sunny days for this. See that no rain or dew wet the product. Throw a mosquito bar over it to keep off flies and insects. Stir the slices and turn them over once or twice a day. Take out the thin ones, which dry first.

You must be particularly careful about the sand insects. If they lay their eggs in the drying product, they will hatch later and riddle your dried foods, rendering them unfit for the table.

If you can afford trays, use them. Then you can stack the trays at night and cover them with oilcloth, canvas or roofing paper during wet weather.

Don't put your trays directly on the ground. You can make a little tier tray, if you have a handy man around the house to hang over the kitchen stove and dry your things that way. It will utilize all the hot air given off by any kind of a stove.

Still another home made drier is the cookstove oven. Bits of food, especially left-overs, can be dried on plates in a very slow oven in connection with other cooking or on the back of the cookstove and preserved for winter use.

If the oven is very warm the door may be left ajar and the temperature of the oven often noted. You can also use small galvanized iron trays in the oven. There are such small driers on the market.

Then there's the electric fan. If you own one, fruits and vegetables in long trays, about 3x1 feet and set in two tiers, end to end before the fan, can be dried within 24 hours.

Sliced string beans and shredded sweet potatoes will dry before a fan running at moderate speed within a few hours. In many cities the fan will use about 1-4 of a cent an hour in electricity.

Place the fan close to the stack and do not fill them so full that the air cannot pass freely around them.

The big advantage of the fan method is that the food keeps cool all the time, thus tending to retain the color and prevent spoilage.

Member Of British Parliament In Clearfield

man who has tasted the bitterness of despair. Doubtless he is a fair sample of the quiet, determined, but suffering Englishman this war has brought forth. We shall have many such in our own borders before long. There was an absence of hate in his quiet narrative, but a strong feeling of dependence upon the righteousness and of his—and our—cause, and a sincere appreciation of America's entry into this battle for humanity. His references to past relations were sincere, and tinged with regret, and his hope of a combination of English speaking nations for the preservation of peace after the ending of the war found a hearty echo in every heart.

The democratic sentiments expressed by Mr. Alden, a member of the British Parliament, would do credit to the truest American among us.

A great change is taking place in England, he said, and the lines of demarcation that so keenly separated the prince and peasant, have all but disappeared. Let us hope the process will continue to a logical end. Nothing else is required to make England what those who love her could faintly have her be.

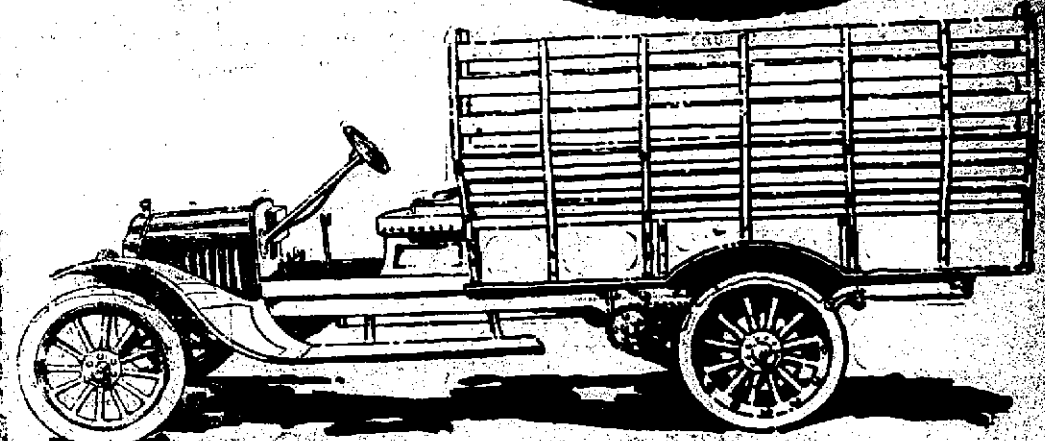

The reconstruction of Europe after the war, according to the best thought of English and French statesmanship, must be based on autonomy, and the relegation of king and kaiser to the scrap heap. Democratic majority rule, now in existence in France, Russia and England, will be the basis of government. Settlement will be predicted upon the hope of the removal of grievance resulting from bloodshed, and nations with national aspirations, language, and literature, will be given that freedom without which life is held worthless. Alsace and Lorraine will be dealt with in accordance with the hopes of their peoples; Poland will become a nation once more; Austria-Hungary will probably be divided in accordance with the will of these people; the Balkan States will probably be united under a Federation similar to the United States as will other small principalities which, for geographical reasons, must necessarily combine in order to have free access to the sea, use of railway and water transportation, mines, etc. All these changes, Mr. Alden said, must necessarily take time, and care must be exercised that everything calculated to leave a sting be removed, and full preparation be made for the interrupted reign of peace, which the world hopes will follow this unspeakable war.

Mr. Alden's references to President Wilson's messages to Germany prior to the war was very acceptable to his audience. He paid a warm tribute to the literary value of these state papers; their charity, succinctness, and sincerity, and gave it as his belief that they would form not a small part of English literature and in the national school curriculum of the old country in the future. Mr. Alden's address, while lacking in oratorical effect, was one of the red letter periods in a most remarkable series of addresses on the war. It was educational and effective, and his advent to Clearfield was most welcome at this period of our country's history.

Smith Form-a-Truck 350

Sell all your Horses except those you need for Work in your Field. Haul Cheaper—Faster with Smith Form-a-Truck

YOU are losing money—losing time—delaying farm work—when you take your horses out of the field to do your hauling.

Get a Smith Form-a-Truck—let it carry the manure—your hay—your fertilizer. Use it for hauling crops—feed—lumber—coal—and everything on the farm.

If you are a dairy farmer, sell all your horses. Use Smith Form-a-Truck. Save two thirds your time. Treble your profit.

Twice the Work of 4 Horses

Hundreds of farmers are proving in actual daily performance that one Smith Form-a-Truck will do twice the work of two teams. And at half the cost. Yet Smith Form-a-Truck costs you no more than a good team and harness—$350.

Save 3 the Time

The best speed a team can make on the road under full load is three to four miles an hour. Smith Form-a-Truck can carry the same load at the amazing rate of 12 to 15 miles an hour—one-third the time of slow, costly horses.

Think what this tremendous saving means in drivers' wages!

Goes Anywhere

Use Smith Form-a-Truck any place on your farm—over roughest roads—through worst field—through deepest sand—through mud, sand, snow. No hill is too steep for it.

Costs Nothing While Idle

Farm horses work only 1,000 hours a year—100 days of 10 hours each. Yet they eat—get veterinary services and extra care for 365 days. Think of the tremendous money you are losing—265 days of idleness.

Use your Smith Form-a-Truck as many hours a day as necessary—for 365 days every year. When idle, it costs you not one penny. And when it works, it makes big profits for you.

Amazing Economies

Less than 8c per ton mile. 6,000 to 8,000 miles per set of tires—12 to 15 miles per gallon of gasoline—12 to 15 miles per hour under full load—and repair expenses practically nothing. Smith Form-a-Truck shows record of 20,000 miles per set of tires—average loads of 2,000 pounds—at a total of $8 for repairs.

Famous 8-in-1 Convertible Farm Body

Pull the lever! Instantly you get any one of eight combinations of farm bodies without a single tool—stock rack body—hay rack body—single log rack—grain—feed rack—big feed board—big rack—scoop board down. Exclusive Smith Form-a-Truck feature.

Now for 6 Cars

Smith Form-a-Truck attachment combined with a Ford, Maxwell, Dodge Bros., Chevrolet, Buick or Overland chassis makes a fully equipped, powerful, strong one-ton truck. Double construction—the strongest known to engineering—90% of load carried on Smith Form-a-Truck rear axle. Ford rear axle merely acts as a jack-shaft.

Come in NOW. Let us show you how Smith Form-a-Truck on your farm will save you big money.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THIS HABIT AS WELL AS MEN

Don't eat bite of breakfast until you drink glass of water

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, your fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening which will cost but a trifle less than the entire alimentary canal before sufficient to demonstrate the quick, remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities, contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

Those subject to sick headaches, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store.

CLEARFIELD, PENNSYLVANIA

On July 28th, 1917, while we were attending the funeral of a maternal aunt at Williamsport, Pa., James Patrick O'Laughlin declared a dissolution of this firm and removed from this office the books, books of account, bank books, check books, letters, letter books, letter files, papers and other valuable and important property belonging to this firm from the time of its organization in January 1904. All this was done without our knowledge or consent, and without the knowledge or consent of the heirs of Thomas H. Murray. We heartily consent to the dissolution of the firm. To the removal of the firm's property from its office and place of business we do seriously object and will apply to the Court at the first opportunity for whatever remedy the law affords. All persons are warned against dealing with the said James Patrick O'Laughlin alone in the firm's affairs or property.

N. Y. C. RESTORES TRAIN SERVICE ON RIVER LINE

GOES INTO EFFECT MONDAY

The New York Central management, after one month's trial, have recognized the right of the people of that section of Clearfield county traversed by the River Line to first class passenger service or in any event a regular passenger train, and starting on Monday will restore regular passenger service between Clearfield and Keating.

According to the new schedule left at The Progress office this morning by J. P. O'Laughlin, Esq., of the company's local counsel, the new passenger train will leave Clearfield at 10:30 a. m. and arrive at Keating at 1:25 p. m. Returning the passenger train will leave Keating at 2:00 p. m. and arrive in Clearfield at 4:55 p. m.

The Progress is more than proud to make this announcement for the New York Central and is glad to know that the management is broad enough to correct its mistakes when those mistakes are apparent.

While it is true that the River Line is about the busiest single piece of track the N. Y. C. system has in this section, much of the business done originates and is diverted from points far distant from the state, and the people of the section traversed certainly could not be blamed for protesting when their rights and privileges were curtailed and taken from them in order to get the product of other sections and other states to market. Especially so, when the original line of the N. Y. C. was available to enough of this traffic to allow for the little bit of time allotted to actual running of this passenger train.

Another thing that causes rejoicing in this restoration of passenger service as per the time table posted today, is that the grove menace of travel on a mixed train on the River Line, due to its physical condition, is removed. As every person acquainted with the River Line is aware, there are four large tunnels between Clearfield and Keating and as the rules seemed to allow the attaching of the passenger cars to cars loaded with gasoline, explosives and combustibles generally the possibility of wrecks and horrible disasters were ever present every day such "mixed train" started out on that trip.

This together with the universal complaint of the down-river people who were forced to come out and wait

Incendiary Sets Fire To Goffe Acres Barn

Automobile Party Fortunately Sees Smoke and Fire is Squelched

The timely passing of an auto load of young people, returning to Clearfield from the carnival at DuBois early this morning nipped in the bud what promised to be a lively conflagration as has visited our neighboring farms for some little time.

Just as the returning merry-makers arrived opposite Goffe Acres, above Grampian one of their party noticed flames issuing from what looked to be the barn. Closer inspection disclosed the fact that someone had thoroughly saturated one of the smaller out-houses with gasoline and touched a match.

Alarming the Fegley household the party soon formed a bucket brigade and with the aid of a Pyrene extinguisher had the flames under control in a short time. That the origin of the fire was incendiary there is no question as one of the party informed The Progress man that the odor of gasoline was very noticeable and the building seemed to have been set on fire in several places at once.

WANTS A DIVORCE

Walter B. Brooks of Curwensville, through his attorney A. H. Woodward filed a petition in the Prothonotary's office yesterday in which he asks for a divorce from his wife, Lucinda Brooks. He says they were married October 8, 1914 and separated in February 1917, on account of the cruel and barbarous treatment his wife accorded him.

AGED GENERAL SHOTS WIFE AND SELF

Boston, Aug. 4.—General Wm. Hoffman, U. S., retired, early today shot his wife Ora and then committed suicide in his home near Dorchester. The reason for the act is unknown. A physician in the apartment heard the shot and hurried to the scene. Both died in a few minutes. The general was aged 78 years.

along the line for the uncertain arrival of the mixed train with little or no shelter at all, no doubt assisted N. Y. C. officials in making up their minds to restore the desired passenger train.

This spirit and desire to recognize the rights of all parties should be conducive to much better feeling between the railroad and its patrons in the future.

ponquuoq aq ipm „quaz paxim, v between Mahaffey and Clearfield. This train, according to this time table in effect August 5, will leave Mahaffey at 8:15 a. m., and is due to arrive in Clearfield at 10:20 a. m. Returning it will leave Clearfield at 5:10 p. m. and is due to arrive in Mahaffey at 7:15 p. m. This will still allow regular passenger service between these points by other trains.

Member of British Parliament In Clearfield to Lecture Last Night

Large Audience Appreciated Chance to Hear of World War From One so Well Informed on It

Honorable Percy Alden, member of Parliament, who spoke at Chautauqua upon the topic of the great war, and the future of Europe after its cessation—if it ever does cease, is not an orator, and makes no pretensions in that direction. His address might more properly be described as an unaffected presentation of the case for the allies, and our people heard him quietly and earnestly, and gave him full credit for sincerity manifested in his demeanor. He has been associated with the distribution of the relief measures among the Belgian refugees driven into Holland, and England, and some of his stories of the horrible cruelty of the German army almost pass humane comprehension. The repetition of the story of an army driving women and children before it in order to save their own men from the bullets of the enemy—which a great many of our people have hitherto refused to believe—must stamp German militarism as not only horrible, but also as most densely stupid. Prussianism, relying apparently upon the tenderness of Christianity, which they hoped would operate to break down under the spectacle of the number of innocents, and permit an unspeakable atrocity to win, by default, has lost all sense of religion, and has become—and made the German people become—merely material brutes. There is but one cure for that phase of mind, and only one—cold steel in allopathic doses. Germany, had she been under any deep sense of religious feeling, would have risen en masse at the first demonstrations of "frightfulness," and hanged her Kaiser, and his bloody hirelings. There is time still but time is getting short. If Germany—the German people, not the pack of rascals that have brought the name of this once honored nation into the gutter—hopes to retain a shred of that respect upon which to build future relations with the civilized nations of the world, her honest men in the trenches, and those at home who have left a shred of real humanity, will resolutely cast off the rule of cowardly and dastardly inhumanity and brutality and proclaim for the return of a vantage of civility in the conduct of the war. We hardly hope for this, for a jidity seems to be the ruling characteristic of Germany's war lord.

We who know so well the quiet aplomb and self possession of the average Englishman of Mr. Alden's type, could sense the awfulness of his experiences from his quiet and unsentimental recapitulation of cold-blooded murder. He bears the hall mark of a

The American submarine A-7 built in 1902, blew up in a mysterious manner while off Cavite near Manila, in the Philippine Islands. Five men, including her commander, Lieutenant Arnold Marcus, were killed. The first report had it that the cause was the formation of a pocket of gasoline within the ship.

Burnside Great Place For Long Wedded Life

Local Historian Recounts Eight Couples Married Fifty Years

The little town of Burnside situated in the upper end of Clearfield county near the headwaters of the beautiful West Branch of the Susquehanna river, is sure one quiet, healthy spot. At the recent golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. John Stauffer the village historian was moved to a compilation of statistics covering similar occurrences in that community and as a result of his research he announces that during the past two score and two years no less than eight couples have celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries.

They were Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ruffner, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brickell, Mr. and Mrs. James Wetzel, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Darr, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. James Sunderlin and Mr. and Mrs. John Stauffer. In addition to these Mr. and Mrs. Henry Darr and Mr. and Mrs. James Dowler only lacked a few months of rounding out a half century of wedded life, where the pruning knife of time cut the golden circle which bound their lives together. Of these good old people Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver celebrated the 64th anniversary of their wedding and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ruffner rounded out sixty years of wedded life.

This certainly is a record any community might well be proud of.

SUNDAY NIGHT VESPER AT THE CHAUTAUQUA TENT

The churches of the city will unite in a Vesper Service at the Chautauqua tent Sunday night at 7:30 P. M. There will be a sacred concert given by the talent of the "Chimes of Normandy Concert Co.," which will be followed by an address by Dr. Guinness of Washington, D. C.

The combined choirs of the churches will be on the platform, and lead in the singing of familiar hymns. Bring your "Make Christ King" books. Everyone in town invited to this service. There is no admission. An offering will be taken.

ENTERTAINED S. S. CLASS

Mrs. Judson Carns entertained Mrs. James Starns Sunday school class of which she is a member last evening at her home on Turnpike avenue. After the business meeting the evening was spent in a social way. Miss Myra Shaw furnished beautiful music for the guests. The house was beautifully decorated in ferns and cut flowers and the table decorations were red, white and blue. Delicious refreshments.

Armed Men Hunt Draft Slackers In Oklahoma

One Little Skirmish Occurs But No One Is Hit In Fusillade

Wewoka, Okla., Aug. 4.—One hundred and fifty armed men headed by Sheriff Grall left today to join the posse at Ada, Okmulgee, and Muskogee who are in search of anti-draft demonstrators who are spreading terror throughout the southeast of Oklahoma. The posse planned to form at Lone Dove. Reports indicate that more than 600 armed men will form the posse. At nine o'clock no reports had been received by the posse scouring the river bottom for the rioters. The residents said that the men were hiding in the brush along the river.

Ada, Okla., August 4.—The first fight between county officials, citizens' posse and deputy sheriffs on the one side and anti-draft rioters on the other took place at Stonewall early today. A number of shots were fired but not one was injured.

MOLDERS BACK TO WORK

Comrade 'Red' Delaney Makes Observation

Gives The Progress Readers An Insight Into Army Affairs

Gettysburg, Pa.
August 2, 1917

To My Dear Friends in General: Was surprised and also amused when I saw in The Progress the size of the loaf of bread they bake in the Gettysburg National Park bakeries. I'll bet they make Schmitt jealous. Gettysburg National Park is the correct military name for this camp.

I have always known Stewart, Jim and Nightingale's imagination was immense, now I am convinced. On the level, they are not so large. The reason I can speak so truthfully about the size of a loaf of bread is because I have mangled quite a number doing K. P. in other words Kitchen Police or detail, which is by the way some job. I would love to see some of my old pals peeling spuds, washing pans etc. Henry Ryan spent last evening with us in camp and seemed to enjoy himself very much. Our life appealed to him immensely. There are a few other nuts in our detachment besides myself, therefore he had quite a pleasant evening. This evening he is coming out to have supper with me. He gave both Harry and myself a box of Camels, ten packs. Wasn't that fine of him? It surely goes good to see someone from home, you know. As you no doubt know when we landed at this port the two regiments from Texas, which were the 4th and 7th were divided into the 58th, 59th, 60th and 61st. That made the number in each very small. Since that time the 4th, 7th and 58th have built up to war strength which is fifteen companies, about one hundred and sixty five to a company. Tomorrow they start to fill our regiment which is the 59th. Every thing at this port is infantry. At present there are about ten thousand men here. You can't see a civilian in Gettysburg for soldiers. I am in the same corps as Dr. Piper and Dr. Lever Stewart are enlisting in. Of course they will have a little more authority than I have which no doubt don't sound reasonable.

We haven't the slightest idea how long we will remain in Gettysburg. Some say until Spring, others say about a month. One thing is certain the sooner the 59th goes to France, the sooner the war will be over, as we are going to be some gang. Harry Davis is getting fat, lazy and sassy. We only have two sergeants. They are both good old scouts, and you know those things count. When we are built up to war strength I will try and have our Brigadier General Kennedy march to Clearfield and have you give us a look. I receive The Progress daily, and believe me it goes good. The only fault I can find, there isn't enough scandal. Can't you get somebody to start something.

We got our second partyhood inoculation today, which is five since joining. If you hear of anybody from home coming this way tell them to be sure and pay us a visit. Just ask for the Medical Corps 59th infantry. Hoping that everybody and everything in the old town is O. K. and that no more of the boys have to join the colors, will rest.

Sincerely
Private Harry E. Delaney

Government Calls For Ships Now Building

Order Will Affect Aggregate Tonnage of More Than Million and a Half

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 4.—The Shipping Board today telegraphed orders to a score of the largest shipping yards requisitioning all ships of 25,000 tonnage now building. Management of the yards will continue under the present owners, but under government direction. 675 ships will be affected by the government's order. The aggregate tonnage will be more than 1,500,000, including many English, Norwegian and other vessels of foreign account.

EXPLOSION IN KENTUCKY COAL MINE

(By United Press)

Clay, Ky., Aug. 4.—Following a gas explosion in a mine of the Western Kentucky Coal company it was reported many men were entombed. Most of the men are negroes. According to the latest report it seems the mine is on fire. One report said 200 men were entombed. Soldiers who were on guard in that section have charge. Thirty negroes have been rescued. One was burned to death and three may die. Four mine rescue cars are on their way from Evansville, Ind.

Germany Reshaping Her Military Course To Meet U. S. Offensive

Entrance of America Into the War Will Help Put Kaiser's Army on The Defensive

By J. W. T. Mason

(Written for the United Press)
New York, Aug. 3.—Germany's military situation at the close of the third year of the war is being shaped to meet the new offensive of American troops on the western front next spring. The Kaiser must henceforth fight a defensive battle because of America's entrance into the war; and he must husband his soldiers for use against America's new citizen armies. No seriously designed offensive that would risk bringing large casualties to the Germans can henceforth be attempted by the Kaiser except at great peril to his lines when the main forces of the United States begin to hammer at the western front. Germany must save her soldiers to meet the American assault if there is to be any possible hope of the Germans retaining part of their hold on Belgium and Northern France for trading purposes in the peace conference.

This is the reason why during the third year of the war, the German general staff has feared to attempt a serious offensive against the armies of the new Russian democracy, weakened by dissensions and threatened with mutinies. The Germans might have broken through the Riga front and perhaps captured Petrograd last

COURT MARTIAL WILL BE CASE OF SLACKERS

Those Who Feebly Oppose Draft Laws Will Be Subject To Court Martial

CROWDER RULING IS BRILLIANT

(By United Press)

Washington, Aug. 4.—Change of the section and trial before a military court is the fate of eight men of Oklahoma, Georgia, and other states who feebly opposed the draft. The government intends to set property and forcibly according to an official directing operations for the military service law today.

Provost Marshal General Crowder today conferred with Attorney General Gregory on the question of dealing with the slackers. I am not only much impressed with the attitude of the anti-draft rioters. I believe 90 per cent. of the people of this country are in favor of the exemption law. Any eligible man who part in such a movement will be committed into the new national camp placed in an army camp and if he fails to answer he will be regarded as an ordinary deserter with no opportunity to go before the exemption board but with the opportunity of going before a military court.

GERMANY THREATENS NEW TREAT NATIONS

Rome, Aug. 4.—Germany had threatened the neutrals was one going to close their frontiers against the Russian powers that such an act would be cause for war, it became known this afternoon. The German threat, it was said, was directed especially against Holland.

spring but the attempt would have been a very costly one, and Petrograd in the hands of the Kaiser would bring to life the dead German soldiers when the American troops start pressing the Teutons toward the Rhine.

The revolution in Russia occurred between the breaking of German-American diplomatic relations and the declaration of war by the United States upon Germany. The risk, therefore, of moving deeper into Russia was too great to be undertaken. The offensive which the Germans began to develop in eastern Galicia at the close of the third year of the war cannot be pressed far, unless the Russian troops show complete demoralization and practically invite the Germans to move forward. Any further resistance by the Russians will only bring the Germans to a halt; their troops must be saved for the western front against the time when America starts what will be the final offensive of the war.

The third year of the conflict saw a phenomenal German success in Rumania. The great retreat of the Teutons in Transylvania, followed by the overwhelming victories against the confident Rumanians formed a series of campaigns that could have been

In making absurd statements the Republican compares favorably to the Menace which is published out at Aurora, Missouri. Both papers are committed to certain policies; the former to saving the county thousands of dollars a year (this money saved the county includes every resource of the county which remains in the hands of the county officials and taxes not yet levied or intended to be levied) and incidentally, in the interest of cheap politics, villifying every public official and servant who by good judgment thinks four square instead of two by four. The Menace likewise is always seeing white elephants, always pointing the finger of suspicion at those it seeks to harass and embarrass and lives and has its very being through the support it gets from those who like to believe the worst of men and enjoy reading the sensuous tales it prints. It villifies every individual member of the institution it opposes. Thus does our "Clearfield Menace" live and have its being.

Men and institutions can win their way with honorable methods. There never was any justification for such political methods as insinuations and inferences on the honesty of men but it was tolerated because it was common practice and because the politician of the past rode to fame, glory and power by riding over the prostrate bruised and bleeding form of his opponent by using some cheap scandal-mongering sheet to poison the minds of the voters. Thank God there are few such newspapers in existence now. Editors have come to a realization that they owe more to their readers than to designing politicians and no longer wield their pen to splotch character and poison minds.

The Republican has accused, times beyond number, lie or private life. The fault of being incompetent and inefficient and we have an idea that this accusation is made most frequently because they are charges which do not lay the Republican liable to any responsibility and are so broad that they can be laid against any individual in public or private life. The fault of being incompetent and inefficient lies entirely in the degree of incompetency and inefficiency and since the Republican damns the Commissioners if they "do" and accords them the same treatment if they "don't," the Republican thereby renders itself incompetent to fix the degree. It is a fact that the Commissioners have been condemned by the Republican for every progressive move they have made. The farmer, the tradesman and the salesman, also the man who has interests through the county and state use automobiles in the interest of economy and efficiency and yet the Republican brands the county car an extravagance. For years people have clamored for removal of the dangerous curves at the Creek bridge and the present board of Commissioners removed them. Had the Commissioners refused to sanction these improvements it is safe to assume that the Republican would have jumped all over the Commissioners for sticking to Pullman cars instead of braving the dust and bad weather of autoing by investing a paltry sum in a cheap car to make trips in the interest of county business. And had the Commissioners failed to go ahead with the bridge improvements they would have been held up on another charge of inefficiency.

Now for the absurdities. The Republican takes occasion to lambast Jesse Dale for resigning from the Exemption Board because he could not give attention to his duties as a County Commissioner and serve on the Exemption Board. The Republican overlooked the fact that it was not a case of choosing between two salaries as Mr. Dale could have collected both his salary as a Commissioner and his daily compensation as a member of the Exemption Board. We await with interest what the Republican will have to say about the resignation of J. Frank Snyder, the latest appointee who resigned because of his Red Cross activities and other engagements in which he is interested. We have no censure for Mr. Snyder. It is up to him to decide what is his patriotic duty in this time when the immediate raising of an immense army is the paramount consideration and it is up to the Government to decide whether they will release Mr. Snyder or force him to serve. However we mention this incident because it gives the Republican a wonderful chance to practice its natural proclivities.

Again in column two of the latest issue of the Republican the statement is made that all the Commissioners might as well be in Alaska for Mr. Norris would attend to the business of the county. In the next column the absurd statement is made that Mr. Norris has not done twenty cents worth of work in twenty months. Too absurd to command any comment but the acme of inconsistency in the light of the other editorial.

Summing it all up it is the howls, warnings, scare heads, villifications and absurdities which sell the Menace and—well, you know the sequel.

Germany Reshaping Her Military Course

conducted only by military commanders of large skill and daring. Nevertheless the German victories in Rumania will eventually prove to be one of the reasons for the undoing of German militarism. Rumania's complete collapse was the direct cause of the Russian revolution. If the Rumanian armies had been victorious and had retained their first hold on Transylvania and had penetrated into Hungary, the Czar's prestige would have been increased and Czarism would not have been overthrown. Hence, the ultimate cause of democracy was better served when the Rumanian armies were annihilated than if the Rumanians had won victories for the glory of the Czar. The profound influence which the success of democracy in Russia is having on the democratic movement in Germany therefore means that Germany's great military success of the third year of the war will assist the allies in the forthcoming overthrow of Prussian militarism and the establishment of a responsible parliamentary government in Germany.

On the western front, Germany was compelled partly to shorten her defensive lines during the third year of the war, in order to economize her manpower. This retirement was not wholly successful. Scarcely more than sixty percent of the German line has been disentangled from its costly zig zag entrenchments to the straightened front which retires into the reserve six thousand soldiers for every shortened mile of front entrenchments. The German lines from Arras northward still retain their useless convolutions. The Germans have feared to continue the straightened process there because of the presence of a great reserve of British troops who might break through the German line while the retirement was in progress and compel a general retreat. The costly holding of excess mileage therefore still exists for the Germans in the west. This means that many more Germans are being killed than would otherwise be the case; and it is the constant killing of more and more Germans whether the western line breaks or not, that is the main military objective of the allies. Eventually, the time must come when this policy will mean German capitulation through exhaustion of manpower, if the German government is allowed by the German people to carry the war so far.

The third year of the war was half over when the German militarists decided upon the adoption of ruthless submarine warfare against all ships at sea neutral or belligerent. This policy was adopted as a final effort by the militarists to win the war in a short time. It has failed to do so. If the Germans could have carried out their boast of sinking a million tons of shipping at the start of their campaign of ruthlessness, and increasing this total as new submarines were constructed, the war might have ended for the time being in a German victory. But they have not met with fifty percent of their anticipated success. The situation has been made serious for the allies; but the essential factor for Germany was that the U-boats should do their work quickly. By forcing the United States into the war, any long drawn conflict between submarines and merchant shipping must result in success for the latter, because of the immense facilities for constructing merchantmen that America has contributed to the Allies' cause.

The internal situation in Germany during the third year of the war has been developing constantly increasing difficulties for the militarists. The food problem has become worse, because of the curtailment of exports from contiguous neutral countries; and in particular, there has been an intensified suffering among the poor. The inability of the German government to solve the food problem has been the principal cause of the great progress democratic ideas have made in Germany during the past year. The people have begun dimly to realize that the Berlin autocracy is failing in its domestic policies and is halted in its military policies. When this realization becomes thoroughly understood among the Germans, a condition will be brought about that will make the world safe for democracy and so end the war.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

An Apology—And An Explanation

We feel that we owe an explanation to the thousands of Paige enthusiasts and prospective Paige owners whose choice is The Most Beautiful Car in America, but who have been unable to secure prompt deliveries.

The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company has not failed to keep up with its production schedule. As a matter of fact we have already far exceeded the schedule we planned for ourselves last December.

Since January 1st we have been working our huge manufacturing equipment to full capacity. But in spite of these efforts we have never been for one day caught up with the demand for The Most Beautiful Car in America.

It is a significant fact that in the month of July just closed—a period unsettled by war conditions—the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company was able to fill only 58 per cent of the actual orders placed during that month.

There Must Be Good Reasons For This Overwhelming Popularity

The explanation is plain and unescapable. This unprecedented demand for The Most Beautiful Car in America is inspired by Paige mechanical excellence.

The greatest motoring value is the sum and substance of this explanation. With its mechanical excellence, its beauty, its durability, the Paige is easily sold and—most important of all—it stays sold.

This shortage in Paige cars is not merely a local condition. It is national. If you question this statement go to your nearest Paige dealer and he will confirm it.

But there are other reasons for Paige popularity. They go back of mechanical excellence, beauty and excess values. They are fundamental because they make such things possible. We refer to the sound economic and financial policies that are the foundation of the Paige structure.

In percentage of sales increase, The Most Beautiful Car in America has outstripped all competitors between $1000 and $2000 in price for the last six months.

Paige sales in proportion to Paige capitalization are many times greater than those of any car in the same competitive field.

The Paige has built conservatively, soundly. It has no bonded indebtedness. It has been content with a modest profit per car.

The Paige has had the money to create quality in each and every car it has built. The excess value that has been put into The Most Beautiful Car in America has won the confidence and preference of the American public.

This greater value has brought to the Paige a supremacy that has stood unchallenged during the last few months of unsettled economic conditions.

Such overwhelming popularity has made it necessary for us to apologize to you for any delay you may suffer or may have suffered in the delivery of your car.

But is it not worth while waiting for a motor car that is at once the most popular, as well as The Most Beautiful Car in America?

ANTI-DRAFT RIOTERS TERRORIZE OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Aug. 3.—Bands of negroes, tenant farmers and Indians, whose purpose is to defeat the selective service law in Oklahoma, have spread a reign of terror throughout three counties in the central part of the state, partially destroyed two bridges, abandoned their crops, severed wire communications, planned raids on ranches and stores and threaten to burn all the bridges in the district, according to reports received today by Governor Williams.

COMMANDER OF PETROGRAD SHOT; CRISIS IN CABINET

Petrograd, Aug. 3.—General Erdeli, military governor of Petrograd, says the Bourse Gazette, has been killed. He was treacherously shot in the back.

Premier and War Minister Kerensky and all the other members of his cabinet except Vice Premier Nekrasoff, resigned tonight. Later, with the exception of M. Terestchenko, the foreign minister they withdrew their resignations.

The action of Premier Kerensky and his fellow Cabinet members came about as the result of accusations against M. Tchernoff, the minister of agriculture, and a complete breakdown of the negotiations to bring the constitutional democrats into the cabinet. M. Tchernoff was accused of having been connected with the German General staff.

OFFICIALS REVEAL FACTS AS TO AUSTRIAN ULTIMATUM

Washington, Aug. 3.—Germany had possession of Austria's ultimatum to Serbia fourteen hours before it was delivered to Belgrade, according to positive information which has reached officials here and which was made public today for the first time.

It was stated that former Foreign Secretary Zimmermann admitted to himself when pressed very closely as to Germany's foreknowledge of the action of her ally which precipitated the European war.

Information given credence by officials here is that at a conference at Potsdam did take place, and was attended by Von Moltke, Falkenhayn, Tirpitz, Bethmann, Hollweg, the Crown Prince and Emperor William. Afterward the Emperor left for a short trip and on his return found Sir Edward Grey's offer of mediation. He was disposed to accept this, but Von Moltke, Falkenhayn and Tirpitz threw their swords down on the table and offered their resignations. The Emperor thereupon decided to refuse the offer.

SWITZERLAND TO HELP GERMANY WITH LOANS

Paris Aug. 2.—A dispatch to La Liberte from Berne Switzerland says Germany and Switzerland have reached an economic agreement. Switzerland according to the correspondent, will advance Germany 40,000,000 francs ($8,000,000) monthly for nine months at the rate of 5 per cent, with Germany will supply Switzerland with 200,000 tons of coal monthly.

AMERICAN TROOPS LIKELY TO PARADE IN LONDON

London, Aug. 3.—In response to suggestions made by London newspapers the war office and the commander of the American troops in England are considering parading the troops through the streets of London for the purpose of giving the people a chance to welcome them. An announcement by one of the newspapers that arrangements for the parade had been made was declared today to have been premature.

What might have been a fatal accident occurred Thursday evening at the foot of Hogback hill, but fortunately no one was hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Scott McFadden and Mr. and Mrs. Earl McFadden and children, who were returning from Lacomont park where they spent the day, were run into by a large car from Clearfield. Mr. McFadden was driving a Ford, and his car was damaged to considerable extent. Through the kindness of Mr. Bloom at Ferncliff, they were taken to their home on Grampian road, while the other car went on to Clearfield, paying but little attention to the accident.

James Thorburn motored to Clearfield Thursday afternoon.

The community was greatly shocked on Wednesday when the news of the death of Mrs. Ethel Fletcher, formerly Miss Ethel Hughes, reached here. Mrs. Fletcher was employed at a hotel at Kittanning, and with several friends went in bathing and had been informed by the hotel proprietor that there was a dangerous whirlpool which, if not avoided, always proved fatal. A soldier guarding a bridge nearby saw the two girls struggling for their lives and made every effort to save the deceased, but without success, but rescue her companion. Mrs. Fletcher is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Roland of Glen Richey. The deceased is survived by her husband, mother and father, four sisters and two brothers. Funeral services were held Thursday evening at the Baptist church, with interment in the Thompson graveyard.

Robert Murray of Illinois, arrived here today to visit his son, Wm. Murray, and many of his former friends.

Mrs. David Wynn is spending a few days at Youngdale.

Miss Olga Peterson will leave Saturday for Winburne, where she will make an extended visit with her aunt.

Mrs. Annie Clark and son Joseph was visiting Mrs. John Rowles Monday.

Mrs. Levi Rowles has returned to her home after spending the summer visiting her son at Wilkesburg and daughter Mrs. Thomas Fritzsche of Jauratia, Pa.

Brave Exploits Brings Hero Medal to Officer

Recovered Body of Another Officer Under Heavy Barrage Fire

By Henry Wood

(United Press Staff Correspondent) With the French Armies, July 10.—By Mail—Captain Garandeau, who began the present war as a sergeant, has been awarded the Legion of Honor for recovering under most exceptional circumstances the body of a French officer killed just in front of the German trenches.

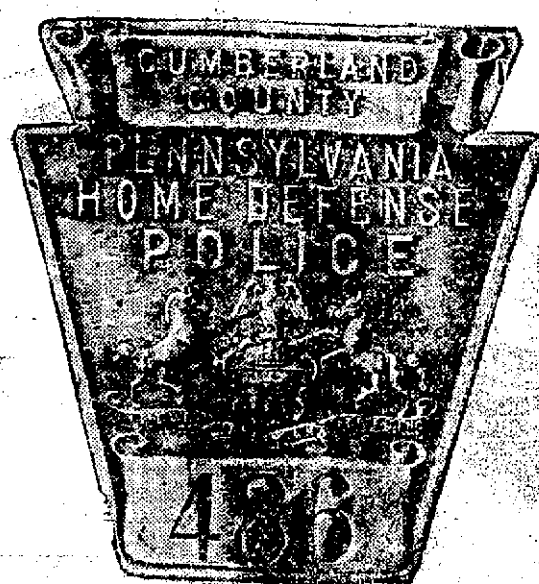

While French machinegun operators hundreds of yards behind the French lines, executed a barrage of fire of protection over the dead body, Garandeau in full daylight and under the eye of both the French and the Germans, crept face downward to the spot, and attaching the body to his leg with a rope, successfully dragged it back into the French lines.

The dead officer, Lieutenant Seve by name, together with his orderly named Olmo, had been killed during a night raid on the German trenches. Immediately afterwards another party had left the French trenches for the purpose of bringing back the two bodies, but after searching all night in vain, came back in the morning empty handed.

During the course of the forenoon, the French finally succeeded in locating with strong field glasses the bodies lying in the tall grass just in front of a German trench and where any effort to recover them would be in full view of the enemy.

As it was certain that if the bodies were left there till night, the Germans would be able to ambush anyone who sought to recover them, Captain Garandeau, who barely knew the dead officer personally, volunteered to bring back the body in full daylight. The only possible protection that could be offered him was for the French machinegun operators to keep the

A friendly warning concerning speech or conduct from a wearer of the armlet and badge here illustrated should be taken in good part—and promptly heeded.

They are the official insignia of the Pennsylvania Home Defense Police and denote that the wearer has all the powers delegated to special officers of first-class cities.

This means authority to make immediate arrests for any violation of the statutes. Maintenance of law and order and protection against all seditious attacks—verbal or physical—are included in the duties of this new force.

The badge is of embossed metal in silver-gray finish. It is considerably smaller than the cut reproduced above but the design of the armlet shown is actual size. The armlet is blue and white and is sufficiently large to enclose the coat sleeve. It will be displayed on the left arm between elbow and wrist when the wearer is on active duty.

The badge will not be prominently displayed when the wearer is off duty. But members of the force will always have their badges with them. The badge is evidence of the authority of its possessor to act for the security of the state at all times.

A Little Old Man Met Him.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

SOME BOYS CHOP WOOD

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

JACK sat down on daddy's left side and Evelyn on the right. When they kept quite still daddy began: "There was once a man who had three sons. The youngest was called Dummeling, which is about the same as calling him blockhead. He wasn't quite a fool, but he was thick at understanding things, and at times the whole household mocked and made fun of him, just as if he could help being stupid. I'm sure all of us would be clever if we knew how."

"Now it happened that the oldest son took it into his head one day to go into the woods and chop wood. So his mother gave him a nice cake and a bottle of wine, so that when he got hungry working so hard he might have a good meal in the woods."

"On his way to the woods a little old man met him with 'Good day, sir. Please give me a little bit of your cake and a drink from your bottle.'"

"But the clever young man said: 'Give you my cake and my wine? No; I thank you. I read all I have myself.'"

"And away he went into the woods to chop. He soon found a tree that pleased him and began to chop away at it. But he missed his stroke, his ax slipped, and he cut himself so badly that he had to hobble home."

"Now, your children will probably guess that it was the little old man who had sent him this bad luck in spite of his cleverness."

"Then the second son thought he would like to chop wood. So his mother gave him a cake and a bottle of wine too. He had not gone far when the same little old man met him and asked him for a bite to eat and a drink from the bottle. But this boy, like his brother, thought himself too clever for the old man. So he cried: 'The more you eat the less there will be for me! Go your way!'

"The little old man took good care that he should have the reward of stingsiness. So the second stroke of the ax in a tree planned off into the boy's foot, and, just like his brother, he was forced to hobble home."

"Then Dummeling said, 'Father, I want to go to the woods to chop wood, like the other boys.'"

"Said the father: 'Your clever brothers have only lamed themselves. You had better stay at home, for you know less than they do about the business of wood chopping.'"

"But Dummeling teased and teased, and at last his father exclaimed: 'Then go your way. You will be wiser when you have ached for your folly.'"

Dead bodies constantly covered with a reaching body of fire and tying barbed wire so that at least the Germans would not be able to creep out of their trenches and engage a hand-to-hand fight with the rescuer.

Accompanied by a soldier named Verdier who also volunteered for the task, Garandeau left the French trenches being obliged first to cut his way through the French barbed-wire entanglements with nippers, then by reaching the open space of No Man's Land. By crawling flat on his face and taking advantage of all natural cover Garandeau was able to keep out of the range of the Germans who could neither see at him or hurl hand grenades without exposing themselves to the deadly machine gun barrage with which the French were covering his worm-like progress.

Within an hour Garandeau after reaching the body of Seve and tying it to his leg, had successfully dragged it back into the French line. Inspired by his exploits volunteers immediately came forward and insisted on being allowed to go after the body of Olmo in the same manner. Sergeant Creteit and three soldiers were finally granted permission and before 8 in the evening they too returned to the French trenches dragging the other body tied to their legs. Simultaneously with the decoration of Garandeau today with the Legion of Honor, the sergeant and soldiers who participated in the exploit received also the Croix de Guerre.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well known authority, who warns to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act free. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by trying a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

It will be considerable blow for Clearfield fans if Detroit tops the Indians at the finish. Earlier in the season followers of the Indians digested the Tigers tagged for the heap.

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY TRAINING ARMY INTERPRETERS

(By United Press) Washington, August 4.—Expert interpreters by the hundreds will soon be needed to carry on the business of Uncle Sam's new national army abroad.

Complete course in military interpretation of foreign languages, approved by Secretary Baker and the war college, are being offered for the summer at Columbia University, where linguists of every variety will be turned out for home and field service during the war. They will enter the army with the rank of sergeants.

First class interpreters, the War Department has found, are a hard class to master into the service in large numbers.

NO ENLISTMENTS AFTER TO-DAY

Captain George S. Ayres acting Major of the 18th Regiment, with headquarters in Clearfield, received word last evening from the headquarters of the Eastern department of the U. S. army to the effect that after tonight at midnight no more voluntary enlistments would be accepted for the National guard or U. S. army. Therefore all young men desiring to enter the service should do so before midnight tonight, otherwise they will be too late.

Co. L of the 18th located in Clearfield, needs a few men yet to reach full war strength and any person desiring to avoid the draft will do well to get in touch with Captain Sevel or his barracks here.

Among the collection of jewels reported to have been sold by the Kaiser for the benefit of the German war loan was a diamond necklace of 375 stones, presented to her by the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VI.—Third Quarter, For Aug. 5, 1917.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Chron. xxxiii, 1-20—Memory Verses, 12, 13—Golden Text, Isa. lv, 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

There are so many things in the affairs of this world which we cannot understand that we can only find rest in remembering that the Lord liveth, and He is not discouraged, and He shall finally subdue all things unto Himself. It therefore becomes us to rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for Him. (Isa. xlii, 4; Rev. xvii, 14; Pa. xxxvii, 7; Phil. iii, 10, 21). That Ahaz should be such a wicked king, Hezekiah, his son, such a good king and Manasseh, his son, such a monster of iniquity is surely a strange sequence of events, which I certainly do not profess to begin to understand, but I rest in Him who foresees and overrules all things. There is something worthy of prayerful consideration in the fact that Hezekiah had fifteen years added to his life after his serious illness (Isa. xxxviii, 5), but did not render to God for this extension of time as he should have done (II Chron. xxxiii, 20).

Manasseh must have been born about three years after that illness, as he was twelve years old when he began to reign (xxiii, 1), and the question presents itself, Was it a real blessing to Hezekiah to have his life thus prolonged? When we are determined to have our own way God sometimes indulges us, even though He knows it is not the best thing for us, as when He gave Israel their request, but sent leanness into their soul (Pa. cix, 15). A mother once told me that when her two boys were very young they were sick unto death, but she would not give them up, and God let them live. But they grew up to give her a broken heart. Wholehearted submission to the perfect will of God is the better way. Contrast the Lord Jesus at the age of twelve about His Father's business and returning to the lowly home at Nazareth, there to be subject to Mary for the next eighteen years (Luke ii, 42-52).

Manasseh's reign was the longest of any of the kings of Judah, fifty-five years, and part of it was the very worst, according to the record in lesson verses 9-10. He wrought much evil in the sight of the Lord and caused Judah and Jerusalem to err and to do worse than the heathen whom the Lord had destroyed before the children of Israel, and, though the Lord spoke to him and to his people, they would not hearken (verses 2, 6, 9, 10). He was surely controlled by the devil during that part of his reign.

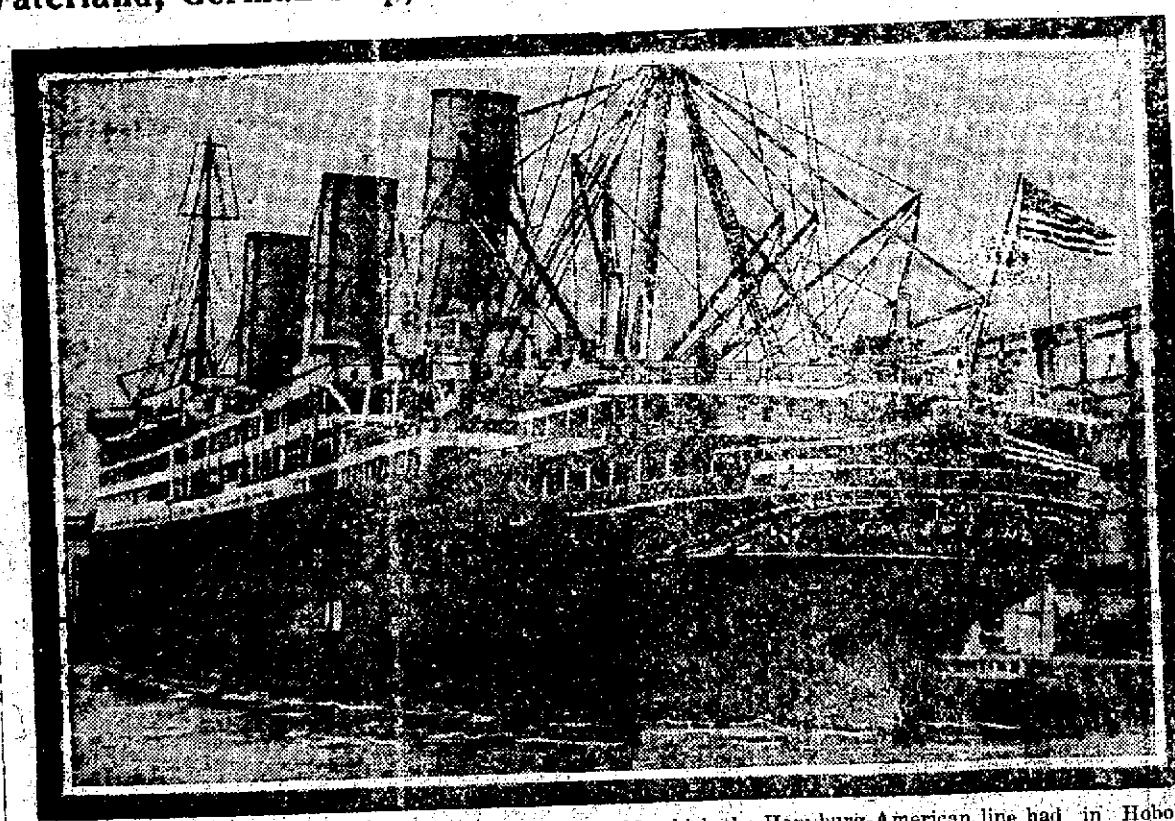

The Lord permitted the kings of Assyria to take him and blind him and carry him to Babylon, and there in his affliction he humbled himself greatly before God and prayed unto Him, and God heard him and brought him again to Jerusalem and to his kingdom. Then he knew that Jehovah was God (verses 11-18). In the Apocrypha there is a prayer recorded as his, part of which is: "Thou, O Lord, according to Thy great goodness, hast promised repentance and forgiveness to them that have sinned against Thee. . . . I have sinned, above the number of the sands of the sea. . . . I have set up abominations and have multiplied offenses. O Lord, I have sinned, and I acknowledge mine iniquities, when I beseech Thee, forgive me, O Lord, forgive me, and destroy me not with mine iniquities."

Whatever his actual prayer was, God, who reads the heart, saw that he was sincere and abundantly pardoned him, according to Isa. lv, 7. Whatever encouragement there is in this and the conversion of Saul of Tarsus and of the penitent thief for any and every sinner, however great, to turn to the Lord, for He came to save sinners, and His word ever stands, "Him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out" (John vi, 37). He is not willing that any should perish and has no pleasure in the death of the wicked (II Pet. iii, 9; Ezek. xxxiii, 11). His eye is to sinners. Look unto me and be saved; incline your ear and come unto me, hear, and your soul shall live. And to His own who have wandered He cries: O that they were wise, that they would consider their latter end! O that my people had hearkened unto me and I would have walked in my ways! (Isa. xlv, 22; lv, 3; Deut. xxxii, 21; Pa. lxxxi, 15). When restored to Jerusalem and to his kingdom he endeavored to right some of the wrongs he had done and to bring forth fruits meet for repentance. He offered peace offerings and thank offerings unto the Lord and commanded Judah, to serve the Lord God of Israel (verses 14-17).

Such a change in such a man must have impressed many and turned many to the Lord, but we shall see as we go on in our lessons that the turning of the people away from God was very desperate, and it was not long until Judah was carried into captivity for her sins. The turning away from God, and His word in our day is as God foretold that it would be (I Tim. iii, 1-5; II Th. ii, 1-12; I Pet. iii, 3, 4; Luke xlv, 25-30), but He will build His church and take her to Himself and bring her back with Him in glory, and Israel shall then welcome Him, and they shall never be unrighteous any more, but shall be a blessing to all nations, and the earth shall be filled with His glory through Israel. His chosen messengers, according to Ps. lxxvii.

Waterland, German Ship, Greatest In The World, With American Flag

The great ship Waterland, the biggest vessel in the world, which the Hamburg-American line had in Hoboken when the war was declared in August 1914, and which has remained there ever since, now flies the American flag. It was run up the other day. The vessel has been taken over by the navy department, and has been repaired at a cost of $1,000,000 because of the damage done by German agents when the United States declared war on Germany. She will likely carry troops to fight against the Germans.

MACHINERY NOT NEEDED TO DRY AND CAN FRUIT

Sun Drying, An Art of Old Time of Your Father, Should be Developed Throughout Nation

SIMPLE PROCESSES GIVEN

By George Martin
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, August 4.—There's a lot of complicated and expensive machinery for fruit and vegetable drying, but Uncle Sam says you don't need to let that worry you. There are cheap and effective methods that do just as well.

Sun drying is about the cheapest and most effective method for housewives practicing a little war economy at home. In its simplest form sun drying consists of simply spreading the sliced or chopped food on sheets of clean paper, or, if it sticks, on pieces of old, tough canvas, mauls weighed down with stones.

Choose bright, hot, sunny days for this. See that no rain or dew wet the product. Throw a mosquito bar over it to keep off flies and insects.

Stir the slices and turn them over once or twice a day. Take out the thin ones, which dry first.

You must be particularly careful about the sand insects. If they lay their eggs in the drying product, they will hatch later and riddle your dried foods, rendering them unfit for the table.

If you can afford trays, use them. Then you can stack the trays at night and cover them with oilcloth, canvas or roofing paper during wet weather.

Don't put your trays directly on the ground. You can make a little tier tray, if you have a handy man around the house to hang over the kitchen stove and dry your things that way. It will utilize all the hot air given off by any kind of a stove.

Still another home made drier is the cookstove oven. Bits of food, especially left-overs, can be dried on plates in a very slow oven in connection with other cooking or on the back of the cookstove and preserved for winter use.

If the oven is very warm the door may be left ajar and the temperature of the oven often noted. You can also use small galvanized iron trays in the oven. There are such small driers on the market.

Then there's the electric fan. If you own one, fruits and vegetables in long trays, about 3x1 feet and set in two tiers, end to end before the fan, can be dried within 24 hours.

Sliced string beans and shredded sweet potatoes will dry before a fan running at moderate speed within a few hours. In many cities the fan will use about 1-4 of a cent an hour in electricity.

Place the fan close to the stack and do not fill them so full that the air cannot pass freely all around them.

The big advantage of the fan method is that the food keeps cool all the time, thus tending to retain the color and prevent spoilage.

Reports from Japan indicate that the equal suffrage movement has recently taken a strong hold on the women subjects of the Mikado.

Member Of British Parliament In Clearfield

man who has tasted the bitterness of despair. Doubtless he is a fair sample of the quiet, determined, but suffering Englishman this war has brought forth. We shall have many such in our own borders before long. There was an absence of hate in his quiet narrative, but a strong feeling of dependence upon the righteousness and of his—and our—cause, and a sincere appreciation of America's entry into this battle for humanity. His references to past relations were sincere, and tinged with regret, and his hope of a combination of English speaking nations for the preservation of peace after the ending of the war found a hearty echo in every heart.

The democratic sentiments expressed by Mr. Alden, a member of the British Parliament, would do credit to the truest American among us.

A great change is taking place in England, he said, and the lines of demarcation that so keenly separated the prince and peasant, have all but disappeared. Let us hope the process will continue to a logical end. Nothing else is required to make England what those who love her could faintly have her be.

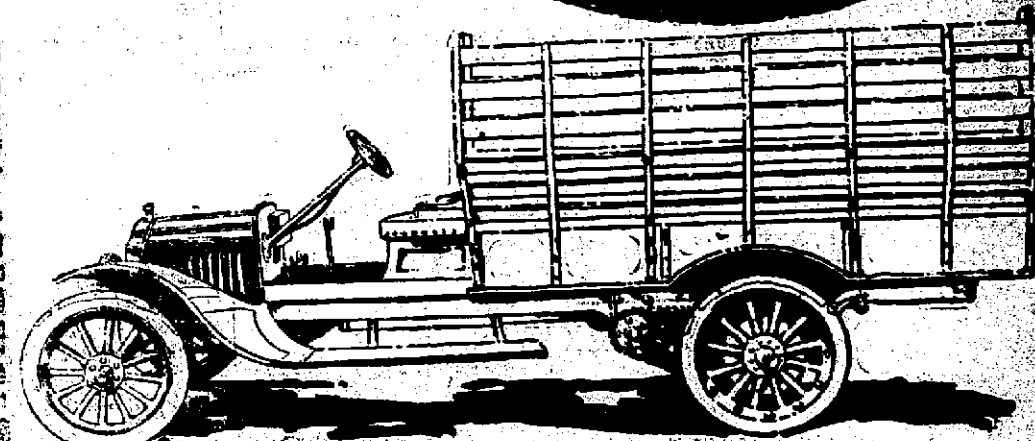

The reconstruction of Europe after the war, according to the best thought of English and French statesmanship, must be based on autonomy, and the relegation of king and kaiser to the scrap heap. Democratic majority rule, now in existence in France, Russia and England, will be the basis of government. Settlement will be predicated upon the hope of the removal of grievance resulting from bloodshed, and nations with national aspirations, language, and literature, will be given that freedom without which life is held worthless. Alsace and Lorraine will be dealt with in accordance with the hopes of their peoples; Poland will become a nation once more; Austria-Hungary will probably be divided in accordance with the will of these people; the Balkan States will probably be united under a Federation similar to the United States as will other small principalities which, for geographical reasons, must necessarily combine in order to have free access to the sea, use of railway and water transportation, mines, etc. All these changes, Mr. Alden said, must necessarily take time, and care must be exercised that everything calculated to leave a sting be removed, and full preparation be made for the interrupted reign of peace, which the world hopes will follow this unspeakable war.

Mr. Alden's references to President Wilson's messages to Germany prior to the war was very acceptable to his audience. He paid a warm tribute to the literary value of these state papers; their charity, succinctness, and sincerity, and gave it as his belief that they would form not a small part of English literature and in the national school curriculum of the old country in the future. Mr. Alden's address, while lacking in oratorical effect, was one of the red letter periods in a most remarkable series of addresses on the war. It was educational and effective, and his advent to Clearfield was most welcome at this period of our country's history.

YOU are losing money—losing time—delaying farm work—when you take your horses out of the field to do your hauling.

Get a Smith Form-a-Truck—let it carry the manure—your hay—your fertilizer. Use it for hauling crops—feed—lumber—coal—and everything on the farm.

If you are a dairy farmer, sell all your horses. Use Smith Form-a-Truck. Save two thirds your time. Treble your profit.

Twice the Work of 4 Horses

Hundreds of farmers are proving in actual daily performance that one Smith Form-a-Truck will do twice the work of two teams. And at half the cost. Yet Smith Form-a-Truck costs you no more than a good team and harness—$350.

Save 3 the Time

The best speed a team can make on the road under full load is three to four miles an hour. Smith Form-a-Truck can carry the same load at the amazing rate of 12 to 15 miles an hour—one-third the time of slow, costly horses.

Think what this tremendous saving means in drivers' wages!

Goes Anywhere

Use Smith Form-a-Truck any place on your farm—over roughest roads—through worst field—through deepest sand—through mud, sand, snow. No hill is too steep for it.

Costs Nothing While Idle

Farm horses work only 1,000 hours a year—100 days of 10 hours each. Yet they eat—get veterinary services and extra care for 365 days. Think of the tremendous money you are losing—265 days of idleness.

Use your Smith Form-a-Truck as many hours a day as necessary—for 365 days every year. When idle, it costs you not one penny. And when it works, it makes big profits for you.

Amazing Economies

Less than 8c per ton mile. 6,000 to 8,000 miles per set of tires—12 to 15 miles per gallon of gasoline—12 to 15 miles per hour under full load—and repair expenses practically nothing. Smith Form-a-Truck shows record of 20,000 miles per set of tires—average loads of 2,000 pounds—at a total of $8 for repairs.

Famous 8-in-1 Convertible Farm Body

Pull the lever! Instantly you get any one of eight combinations of farm bodies without a single tool—stock rack body—hay rack body—log rack body—grain rack body—boarded floor rack—sweep board down. Exclusive Smith Form-a-Truck feature.

Now for 6 Cars

Smith Form-a-Truck attachment combined with a Ford, Maxwell, Dodge Bros., Chevrolet, Buick or Overland chassis makes a fully equipped, powerful, strong one-ton truck. Double construction—the strongest known to engineering—90% of load carried on Smith Form-a-Truck rear axle. Ford rear axle merely acts as a jack-shaft.

Come in NOW. Let us show you how Smith Form-a-Truck on your farm will save you big money.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THIS HABIT AS WELL AS MEN

Don't eat bite of breakfast until you drink glass of water

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, your fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening which will cost but a trifle less than the entire alimentary canal before sufficient to demonstrate the quick, remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities, contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

ANNOUNCEMENT

THOMAS H. MURRAY

JAMES P. O'LAUGHLIN

United States Commissioner

HAZARD ALEX MURRAY

MURRAY & O'LAUGHLIN
CLEARFIELD, PENNSYLVANIA

On July 28th, 1917, while we were attending the funeral of a maternal aunt at Williamsport, Pa., James Patrick O'Laughlin declared a dissolution of this firm and removed from this office the books, books of account, bank books, check books, letters, letter books, letter files, papers and other valuable and important property belonging to this firm from the time of its organization in January 1904. All this was done without our knowledge or consent, and without the knowledge or consent of the heirs of Thomas H. Murray. We heartily consent to the dissolution of the firm. To the removal of the firm's property from its office and place of business we do seriously object and will apply to the Court at the first opportunity for whatever remedy the law affords. All persons are warned against dealing with the said James Patrick O'Laughlin alone in the firm's affairs or property.

Wash Goods Week

Thousands of Yards of Crisp Wanted Wash Materials
In a Sale and Display of Timely Interest and Importance

Beginning Monday, August 6

And for One Entire Week We Are Going to make

Our Wash Goods Section The Center of Business Activity Of This Store.

All manner of wash materials are involved in this Special Event. A considerable amount of extra space has been given for the Showing and Selling. Additional Salespeople will be in the Wash Goods Section so as to help you make selection quickly and easily. Aside from the broad and very unusual display, MANY EXTRAORDINARY Values have been provided.

"Wash Goods Week" will be of greater importance than for years in the past. It is of course, impossible to list here the various kinds of wash materials and all the special items you will find in the store. However, a sufficient number of quotations will be found in this space to convince you of the advisability and need for early attendance.

500 YARDS OF PRINTED VOILES TO SELL AT 12 1/2c YD.

Regular 19c Values

When Mrs. Homedressmaker need but buy a few yards of this voile at 12 1/2 a yard to make a pretty dress or two waists it won't take very long for the 500 yards to be sold out. Newest patterns and colors including tan, white, gold, pink, etc. Designs range from most conservative ideas in dots and checks to bold floral and striped effects.

HUNDREDS OF WOMEN WILL SHARE IN THESE NEW STRIPED AND
FIGURED VOILES AT 19c YD.

Regular 25c and 29c Values

The reason is very simple. These striped voiles are extremely popular. The stripes are in very decided colors which are typical of the sport ideas—and, what is more, the colors are woven and these voiles take a tubbing and come out as fresh and pretty as ever. Full 36 inches wide 35c and 40c DRESS VOILES AT 29c YD.

A very fine grade with a mercerized finish. Many beautiful effects in dots, stripes and plaids that are now in greatest demand. 36 inches wide. Of all fabrics that have been in favor this summer none approaches the extreme popularity of voile.

45c and 50c WASH GOODS AT 39c

This lot includes our finer wash goods. You can choose from a splendid selection of dainty new figured and striped patterns.

DO YOU WANT A SUMMER SUIT OR SHIRT OF THE NEW MILITARY CLOTH
Here are Khaki Suitings at 19c yd. Regular 25 and 29c Values.

The young woman who wants a suit of khaki cloth or a skirt can buy the material here and make the suit or skirt at home at a very small cost. This material is greatly in demand. We have only a limited quantity on hand because this material is very scarce and the correct shade very hard to get. 36 inches wide.
